Lancaster Farming

Vol. 42 No. 1 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, November 9, 1996 | $27.50 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

Gov. Tom Ridge, left, presents a Century Farm certificate to Jane Gordon Fletcher, 95, matriarch at Willisbrook Farm, with Charles Brosius, state ag secretary. Gov. Ridge pays tribute to farmers in the story on Page A20.

Some of the members of the Hushon family prepare to leave for Louisville, Kentucky, to get a head start on competition in the Southeastern National Brown Swiss Show, while the rest of the family is slated to follow later. From the left is Dan and Jacob, Joseph holding a calf, Patti, and Joshua, holding the halter of Old Mill Jetway Fancy, one of their show heifers not headed for the southern-states competition.

Hushons Take Brown Swiss To Louisville

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

DELTA (York Co.) — Six years ago, virtually no one involved in breeding Brown Swiss dairy cattle had ever heard of Dan and Patti Hushon and family in Delta.

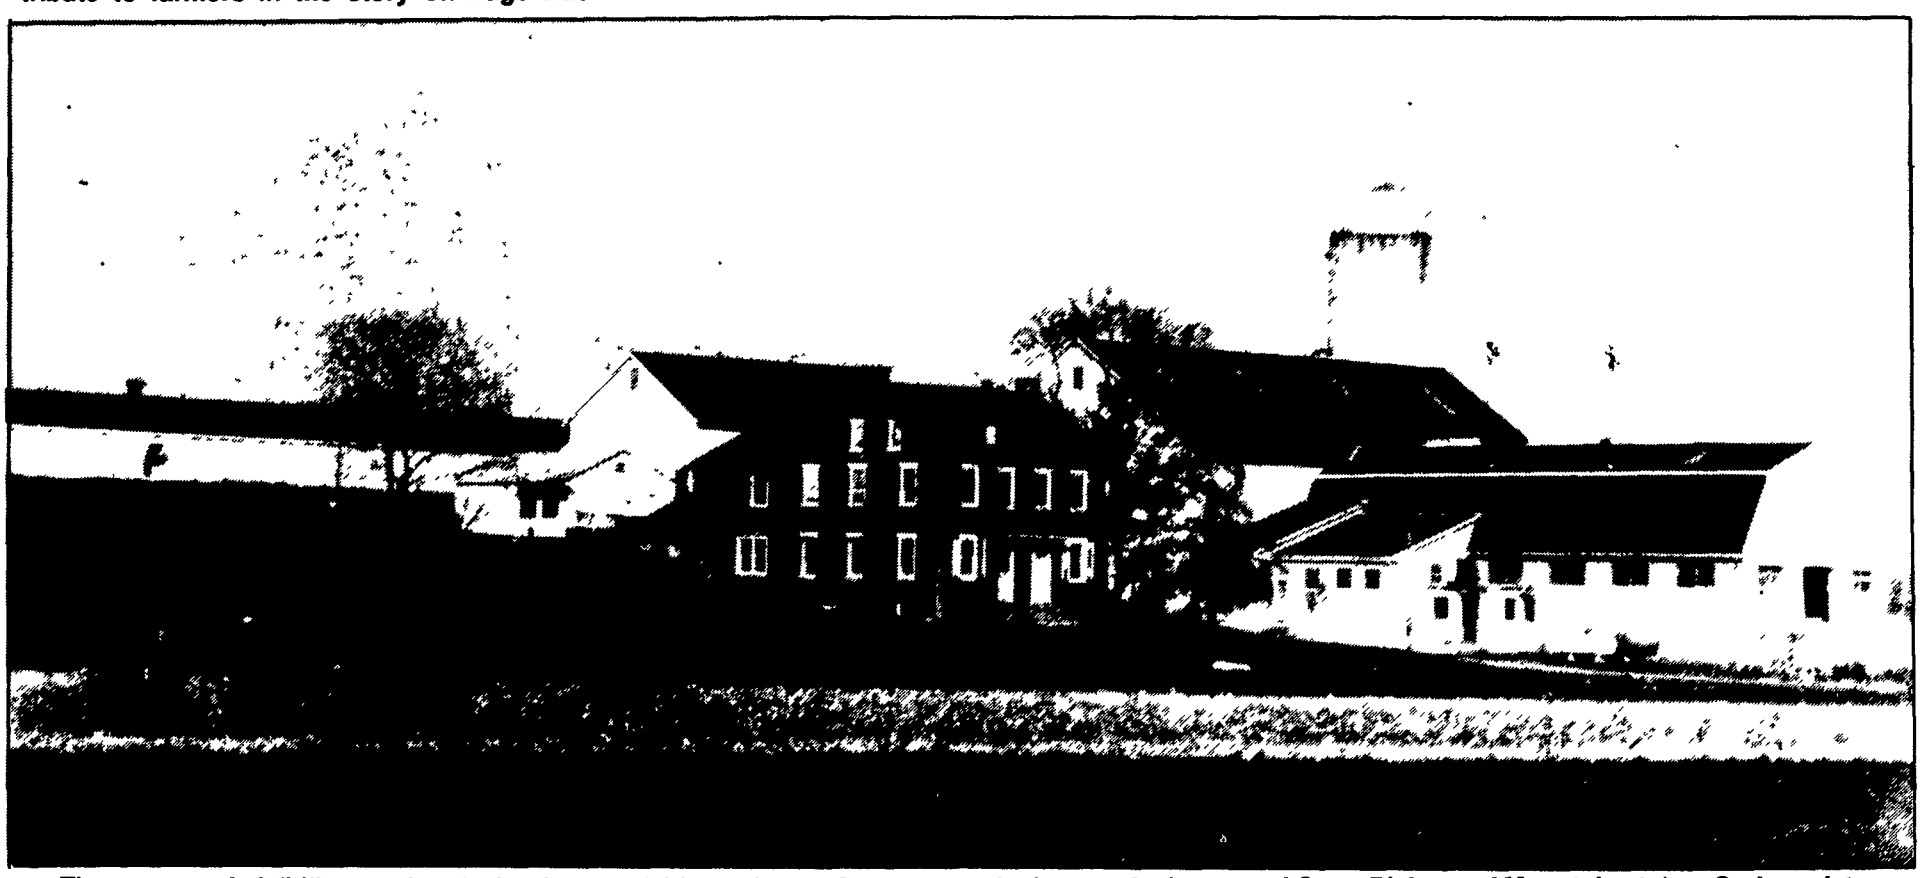
Dan and Patti had registered Holsteins and Dan had a year's employment under his belt as an artificial insemination technician for what has since become the Genex artificial insemination cooperative.

But a lot has changed in six years.

Now the name of the Hushons and their small showstring herd of Brown Swiss cattle are well known in Pennsylvania and are getting to be known nationally.

Some members of the family

(Turn to Page A18)



The warm, early fall-like weather the beginning of this week gave farmers a chance to work on season-end fieldwork. The Pennsylvania Crop and Weather Roundup reported a few farmers were taking a fifth cutting of hay. Also, the corn harvest was in full swing, and soybeans and potatoes were also going in the barn. Hauling manure and seeding barley and wheat were also among the tasks reported by the farmers who supply this information.

The corn crop continues to be reported as mostly good to excellent. There were a few reports of corn blown down from high winds. But these same winds helped to dry the corn and improve harvest conditions. The soybean harvest was reported two weeks behind normal.

In the U.S. as of late last month, widespread rains over the western corn belt slowed the row-crop harvest. An early fall snowstrom left fields too wet for harvest in the central Great Plains and Mountain states. Grain moisture levels remain high in some late-maturing row-crop fields in the central Great Plains, where above-freezing temperatures left some plants in need of a hard frost to halt plant growth and aid drying.

In the futures markets, nearby contracts in soybeans, meal, corn, and wheat were playing around their contract lows. December cattle were in the mid-range of the contract and hogs were stretching up toward the top quarter of the contract range.

In the photo, an Amish farmer west of Lititz chops cornstalks in the field to prepare to harvest winter forage and bedding.

#1 Pennfield's Super Flaked Corn #1

Super Flake is #1 in Rumen Availability

A summary presented at the 1992 Florida "Large Herd Management Conference" by Dr. David Mertens of the U.S. Forage Lab gave the following results:

Corn Processing	% Ruminal Digestion
Dry, Coarse Grind	65%
Dry, Medium Grind	74%
Dry, Fine Grind	78%
High-Moisture Ensiled, Coarse	82%
High-Moisture Ensiled, Fine	85%
Steam Flaked, Thin Flake	86%

More proof! Pennfield sponsored experiments at two universities in 1995 showed similar improvements in Rumen Availability using Super Flaked Corn.

WHY IS SUPER FLAKED CORN BETTER?

Flat rolled steam flaking disrupts the cellular structure of the corn kernels (gelatinization) and increases sites for microbial attachments resulting in improved starch (carbohydrate) digestion in the rumen. In simple terms, the cow uses more of the nutrients because the rumen bugs can get to them and much less corn nutrient goes out in the manure.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
NOVEMBER 6, 1996

Grain and soybean bids finished higher in reaction to fund buying on the board, delays in planting and harvest, and declines in corn and bean production estimates this morning by private sources. Wheat 1 to 8 cents higher. Corn 1 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum mixed. Soybeans 7 to 12 cents higher. Moderately higher wheat bids were due to spillover strength from corn and beans. Fund buying on the board was a factor for all commodities. Slow export demand, limited gains for wheat bids. Winter wheat seeding in the 19 major producing States was estimated at 93 percent planted, up 3 percent from last week and 2 points ahead of the 5-year average. Corn and soybean bids were pushed higher after private sources lowered production estimates, showing corn production at 9.142 billion bushels and soybean production at 2.367 billion bushels. Rains in the Midwest this week slowed corn and bean harvest, also a boosting factor. Corn is reported to be 64 percent harvested, up 19 points from last week but 8 points behind the norm. Soybeans are at 81 percent complete, up 15 points from last week but 7 points less than the average. U.S. Export Sales: Commodity Tonnage Del date Nothing new to report. OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
NOVEMBER 6, 1996

Compared to last Monday: Feeder steers 1.00-3.00 higher, feeder heifers 2.00-4.00 higher. Steer and heifer calves 1.00-4.00 higher. Demand excellent for feeder cattle and calves. Improved demand for feeders the result of more attractive corn prices delivered to feedlots along with positive close-outs the past month or two; in the case of calves, excellent wheat pasture prospects on which turn is underway. Quality of supply average to many attractive. Feeder cattle in attractive flesh with many thin to average. Calves fleshy to very fleshy, few thin to medium. Weigh-ups average, few full. Slaughter cows weak to 1.00 lower, bulls 1.00 lower. Packer demand remains light as fall culling peaks and packers over supplied with slaughter needs. Grazing cows, feeder cows, bred cows, and pairs under very good demand. Country buyers now taking better quality aged bred cows as well as younger cows to stalks and winter pastures. Packers taking near 65 percent of supply. 1113 cows and bulls sold. Receipts this week 16,300; last week 9,115; last year 10,723. The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

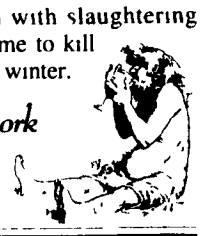
NOVEMBER 11-17, 1996

VETERANS DAY, NOV. 11.

ST. MARTIN

Patron saint of beggars, drunkards, and outcasts, St. Martin came by his charge of protecting drunkards from danger through an accident of the calendar. When the Christians decided to merge the pagan holidays into their more conservative celebrations, St. Martin's Day (November 11) happened to coincide with the traditional Vina'lia Feast of Bacchus, a day of drinking and debauchery. His protection of beggars and outcasts comes from a legend that says that while he was a military tribune, Martin shared his cloak with a naked beggar. Martinmas is also linked with slaughtering because early November was the time to kill and salt beef, sheep, and hogs before winter.



The highest holiness will not work miracles, but only do its duty.

– Phillips Brooks

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ To more easily recap a bottle of wine, reinsert the cork upside down.

TARRAGON GREEN BEANS

1 pound green beans
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
1 small clove garlic, minced
1/4 cup chopped scallions
2 tablespoons chopped fresh tarragon, OR 2 teaspoons dried salt and pepper, to taste

Remove tips from green beans and steam beans until just tender, about 5 minutes. Drain well and cut in half. Heat olive oil and butter in a skillet, add garlic and scallions, and sauté until softened. Add beans and tarragon, sauté until hot. Season with salt and pepper.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If All Saints (Nov. 1) brings out winter, St. Martin's (Nov. 11) brings out Indian Summer.

If the weather is dry and cold on St. Martin's Day, the winter will not last long.

OPINION

Good Questions?

Farmers continue to have a hard time getting accustomed to the low returns they get when they send a dairy veal calf to market. We keep hearing from our farm friends that they send a nice calf to market and instead of getting a check, they get a bill. A local dealer confirms this phenomenon.

The trucking costs, sales commissions, and check-off-for-promotion moneys amount to more than many calves are bringing on today's market. Ten to 20 dollars for a 100 pound calf doesn't cover many expenses.

At one time, many of the dairy calves were bought by other farmers to take home to feed out for beef. But with low beef prices and high feed costs this doesn't pay anymore. So much of the other-farmer-market for calves has dissipated.

In addition, only a very few packers even handle dairy veal calves. All the promotion in the world will do no good if there is no consumer market.

Which brings us to the questions no one wants to face. Why should a farmer be required to pay a dollar per head for promotion of his veal calf that has little or no market value? With all the dollars he has paid for promotion in the last ten years, why isn't there a market?

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Figure Corn Drying Costs

Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, said farmers need to consider drying costs before harvesting corn.

Many corn fields were planted later than normal and we experienced cooler weather for most of the summer. As a result, corn did not mature as fast.

With the bumper crop, the price of corn has drop significantly. This could make drying corn an unprofitable venture.

Two items to consider are field loses and cost of drying corn. Over the next several months, the futures market for corn is about $2.25 per bushel. Drying costs for corn is about $0.08 per bushel per point of moisture. You can afford up to 3.5 percent field loss for each point of moisture (0.08 divided by 2.25). This is your break-even point.

For a 135-bushel-per-acre yield this would translate to 4.7 bushels per acre loss per point of moisture. If corn is standing well, the longer it is in the field using natural drying, the more profitable the crop will be.

To Store Firewood Properly

Dr. Timothy Elkner, extension horticultural agent, offers a few tips on how to handle firewood.

Remember, a pile of firewood is an ideal place for insects and spiders to hibernate through the winter. These insects include wood borers, beetles, carpenter ants, termites, bees, and wood roaches.

Store firewood outdoors in an open area, as far away from the house as practical. Stack firewood off the ground to reduce wood rot and pest problems. Never stack wood against the house. Cover the wood pile with plastic or sheet metal roofing to keep the wood dry.

When cold weather arrives, pieces of firewood may be moved closer to the house for easier access. Firewood should be stored on a rack, patio, or deck instead of on the ground.

Bring only enough firewood into the house to be burned immediately. Firewood stored inside the house over an hour may warm up enough for the insects to emerge and start spring activities early. Do not store firewood in a heated garage or basement for the same reasons.

To Prepare To Mulch Strawberries

According to Dr. Timothy Elkner, extension horticultural agent, it is still too early to apply straw to your strawberry patch.

The plants are not fully dormant and may still be storing carbohydrates for next year's growth and fruit production. If you cover your plants with straw now, you cut off this valuable production of energy reserves and your berry crop could suffer next year.

Your plants could also rot under a mulch, especially if the weather stays wet. Straw mulch should only be applied to fully dormant plants. Exposure to increasingly cold temperatures and shorter days is necessary to properly harden your strawberry plants and cause them to go dormant.

The correct time to apply mulch is after several freezes occur in the high 20's or low 30's for one week. This will not usually happen in southeastern Pennsylvania until after Thanksgiving.

You can tell that your plants are going dormant when the leaves change from green to gray. However, be sure to have your plants mulched by December 15 since temperatures below 17 degrees F. can cause crown injury.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Far away in the sunshine are my highest aspirations. I may not reach them, but I can look up and see their beauty, believe in them and try to follow where they may lead."

SLOW LEARNERS
November 10, 1996

Background Scripture:
II Kings 24 through 25
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 74:1-12

It is hard to imagine a national and personal calamity greater than what befell the people of Judah in the sixth century B.C. Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians (Chaldeans) and Judah became a puppet state of King Nebuchadnezzar, King Jehoiakin, "his mother, and his servants, and his princes and his palace officials" were carried off to Babylon, along with all the treasures of the temple of the Lord. In all, there were 10,000 captives, including "all the princes, all the mighty men of valor" and "all the craftsmen and the smiths." Only the poorest people of the land remained.

King Jehoiakin's uncle, Mattaniah/Zedekiah was made king of Judah by the ruler of Babylon, but in time he rebelled and Judah and Jerusalem suffered again at the hands of the Babylonians. The Jerusalemites suffered a terrible siege and famine. The Chaldeans broke into the city and caught up with the fleeing Zedekiah on the plains of Jericho, where in punishment he was forced to watch the execution of his sons before the Babylonians put out his eyes.

The victorious Babylonians broke down the walls of Jerusalem, desecrated the temple and burned the city to the ground. Once again, they carried into exile most of its inhabitants, leaving only "some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen" (25:12). The two highest priests and other officials were executed. The prophecy was fulfilled and the destruction of Jerusalem complete.

REFUSING TO LEARN

What can we learn from these terrible chapters that close II Kings?

We can see, first of all, that the fulfillment of the prophecy came in stages. One gets the impression that, had the kings and leaders of Judah hearkened to the prophecies, and changed their ways, the destruction and misery could have been substantially reduced. Instead, the people suffered the maximum penalty because they refused to learn from their experiences.

One after another, we see young kings ascend the throne of Judah and making the same mistakes as their predecessors. "Jehoiakim was 25 years old when he began to reign, and he reigned 11 years in Jerusalem . . . And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his fathers had done (33:36,37).

Upon the premature death of Jehoiakim, his son, Jehoiakin, at 18 succeeded his father — for three months. Surely, in light of what had happened to Judah under his father, he would not follow in his father's terrible footsteps! But II Kings tells us: "And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father had done" (24:9). And he and his people pay for this evil with captivity in Babylon.

STUPIDITY'S PRICE

So the King of Babylon appoints Jehoiakin's uncle, Mattaniah, as puppet king at the age of 21, changing his name to Zedekiah. Surely he would learn from the sins of Jehoiakim and Jehoiakin! But, no, "he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Jehoiakin had done" (24:19). And the price he pays for refusing to learn is even more terrible (25:6,7).

From the safe perspective of history, we may wonder how these kings could have been so stupid to repeat the same disastrous acts again and again. We may even wonder why, if the kings could not learn the lessons, their subjects at least did not gain any understanding. But this same stupidity has plagued humankind from the dawn of history into our own times. Both as individuals and societies we have often refused to learn from our worst disasters. Again and again we perpetuate our disasters. Why else would history be regularly and disastrously punctuated by warfare? Why else would we continue to win the wars and lose the peace?

And in our personal and family lives do we fail to learn from bad experiences and thus perpetuate them?

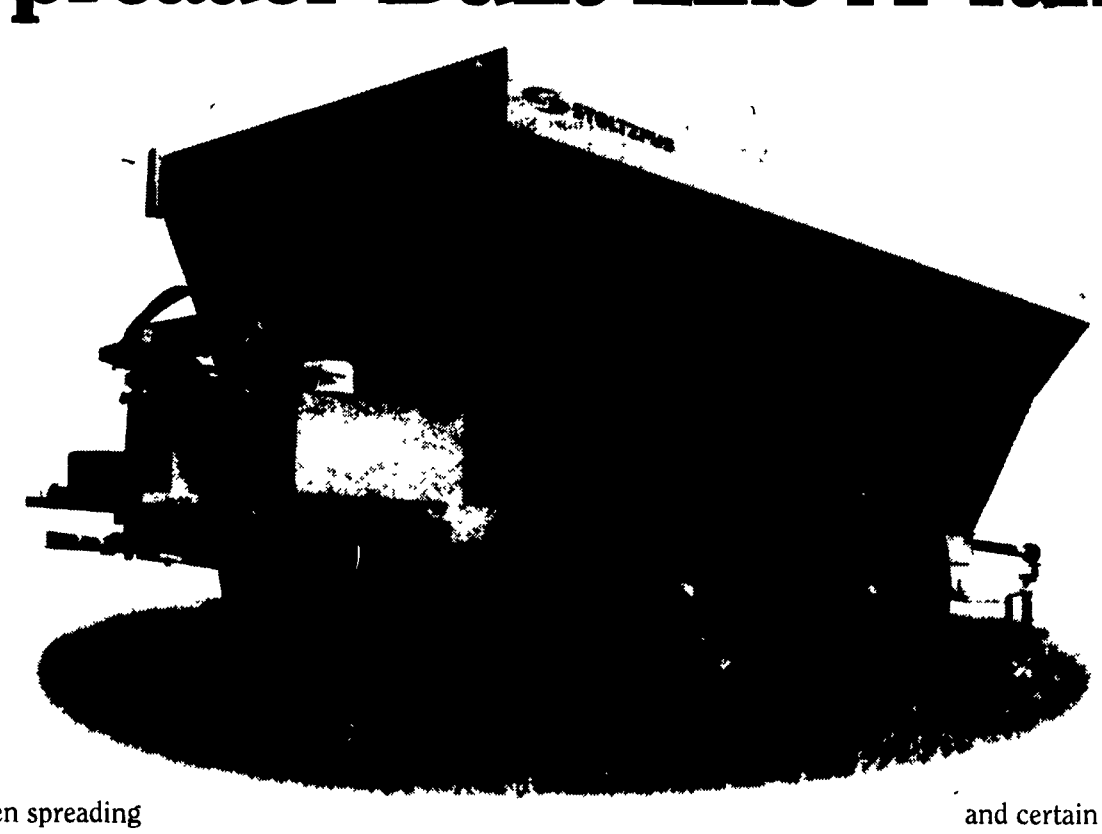
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

WARREN (Warren Co.) — A Beaver County resident was elected to the highest office in the Pennsylvania State Grange by the delegate body during the 124th annual State Grange Convention. The session was hosted by Warren/Forest Pomona County Granges at the Library Theater in Warren.

William (Bill) Steel has been elected Pennsylvania State Grange master (president) for the next two years. Steel, who was previously vice president, will be responsible for supervising the state Grange office in Harrisburg and overseeing all state Grange programs, as well as visiting Granges, hearing concerns of rural Pennsylvania, helping members solve problems and representing the organization on various agricultural and rural affairs boards.

Steel, a 43-year member of the Grange, is a lay minister at St. John's Lutheran Church, a tax preparer with H & R Block and is associated with his father in a beef farm operation. Steel is a past president of the Beaver County Extension Association; and a past chairman of the Youth Conference of the National Safety Council and the Arlington (Va.) County Fair, which he was a co-founder.

Steel is master of Big Knob Grange #2008 and Beaver Pomona Grange #66. He is also a past director of youth activities in the National Grange (1969-81); and past state assistant steward (1964-70) and state overseer (1992-96). Steel and his wife, Mary-Lee, are the parents of three sons and live in New Sewickley Township.

Other officers were also elected at this year's state session.

Betsy Huber of Lincoln University, Chester County, was elected overseer (vice president) for a two-year term. Huber is the first woman to fill the office of vice president. Huber, a 35-year member, is past master of Goshen Grange #121, is immediate past master of Chester/Delaware Pomona #3, past state Pomona (1986-92); and was, with her husband, Henry, the Young Couple of the Year in 1971.

Ridge Presents Century Award To Willisbrook

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MALVERN (Chester Co.) — Farms were honored in general, and Willisbrook Farm in particular, when Pennsylvania's Gov. Tom Ridge visited this horse and vegetable farm Wednesday morning to present a Century Farm Certificate to Robert Lange. Five generations have lived on the farm, and Lange is a family member of the present generation of farm owners. Jane Gordon Coxe Fletcher, 95, a daughter of the original family owner, was on hand too and provided the inspiration for the award ceremony.

"You, Mrs. Fletcher, in many ways help us define what we are as a state and what we are as a people in Pennsylvania," Ridge said. "Your life tells our story. You are a link to the past, and happily you are our hope for the future. In you we see a legacy that stands for nearly a personal century and a heritage we are compelled to carry on," Gov. Ridge said.

Ridge said agriculture's promise is a promise we must all strive to keep. "We are pleased to be part of the nation's bread basket from the very beginning, he said. "Farming is the backbone of our Commonwealth, and we all know that's why Pennsylvania's farmland preservation program is so very important. It is in the interest of our 12 million Pennsylvanians, if they work and live on the farm or not."

In his introduction, Charles Brosius, state ag secretary, said productive acres lost to buildings are lost to production agriculture forever. Even with development pressure, Chester County remains with over 1,500 farms and continues to be a major ag county.

"We cannot keep the farm in the family if we cannot keep the family on the farm," Brosius said.

The 236-acre Willisbrook Farm has been preserved for agriculture through the state farmland preservation program and the natural land trust. Lange accepted the award oin behalf of his family.

"When you look out over the fields, what you see is not much different than if you were looking 100 years ago," Lange said. "That's neat. And in another 100 years it will not look much different than now because all this land is protected for agriculture. I think this is important. Family heritage and farmland preservation are the most important things a family can have.

Lange's farm, which has been in his family since 1896, produces pick-your-own strawberries, sweet corn and pumpkins. The farm also serves as a boarding stable for horses.

The Century Farm Program, administered by the state agriculture department, recognizes farms that have been owned by the same family for the past 100 years. A family member must still live on the land. Since the beginning of the program in 1976, over 1,700 farms have been recognized. Thirty-seven farms have been honored in 1996.

The Farmland Protection program was initiated in 1989 with a $100 million bond issue approved by Pennsylvania's voters. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights to guarantee that farms will

Rech To Extension Family: See The Joy, Magic In Every Day

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — Children have an innate gift, said National Storyteller Association member Greta Rech, to "see the miracles and joy in everyday life," something we could lose as we grow older.

But we don't have to, as long as we keep alive the joy of telling stories to our children.

Rech, along with guitar accompanist Karen Semmelhack, presented several heartwarming tales to 125 family and friends of Chester County Cooperative Extension on Thursday night at the annual extension meeting at the East Brandywine Fire Hall.

Rech, Chatham, a member of the Patchwork Storytellers Guild, has been telling childrens' stories for fundraisers and community events the past two years simply for fun, she said. In essence, Thursday night's performance was the debut appearance for Rech and Semmelhack, who combine tales of magic and music to stretch the imagination of young and old.

Rech presented two tales Thursday evening. The first was entitled "A Song For Lena" by Hillary Hippley in the book illustrated by Leslie Baker. The story told about the farm girl Marlena ("Lena") who, with the help of her mother and sister Anna, make some apple strudel. The good apples, after they were sorted, went on the market, the bruised ones to cider, and the little ones to strudel. After the dough was rolled and stretched, and the apples, butter, sugar, and raisins were mixed and baked, the girls went to play in the orchard.

After a little time, a beggar man appeared, who claimed not a bite to eat all day. Lena, though afraid of the beggar, decided to give him some of the strudel. In return, he sat down and "something very strange happened," related Rech. The girls heard a "beautiful, beautiful music . . . a soft song, sweet and sad," being played, while the girls sat quietly and listened.

So it came to pass that every year, when the strudel was baking, the beggar would appear. After he took some bites of strudel, the same thing would occur, and "that evening, we were full of music and apple strudel."

However, one year, the beggar didn't come. But Pappa told them, "if you listen very carefully, perhaps you can hear the beautiful song," and the girls heard the beautiful music created by the crickets in the field and the birds in the evening.

Rech told the extension family and friends, "Songs are cross-generational, and can provoke the same kinds of feelings between us."

Semmelhack, from Downingtown, with her guitar sang a song, "The Moon Is Made Of Cookie Dough," written by Lisa Atkinson. The song spoke of how the moon "is made of cookie dough and rainbows never fade," with the answers to what makes it so special "right inside your heart."

Rech told another story, this one an anonymous anecdote, about a man who took an island vacation. He was walking along the beach one day and "saw something quite odd in the distance," said Rech.

Chester County Cooperative Extension welcomed 125 to its annual banquet Thursday night. From left, Trudy Doughtery, extension director; Deborah Streeter, board member; Karen Semmelhack, accompanist; Greta Rech, storyteller; Chris Alonzo, board member; and Walter Moore, president of the cooperative extension board of directors.

Pennsylvania Grangers Set Policies

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Over 500 Pennsylvania State Grange members set new policy on important issues including the proposal to deregulate electric utilities, opposition to interstate refuse, a hunting license increase, the Northeast Dairy Compact and Bell Atlantic's decision to seek telephone rate rebalancing through the Public Utility Commission (PUC) during the 124th annual convention here.

The convention ran Oct. 27-31 in Warren County and was hosted by Warren/Forest Pomona Grange.

"As a grass-roots organization, the policies determined here will influence our legislative efforts on Capitol Hill as we work on legislation that will affect agriculture and rural Pennsylvania," Brenda Shambaugh, Legislative Director, said, "These issues are of greatest concern to our membership and the Pennsylvania State Grange will see that these policies are addressed at the state and federal level."

Deregulation of Electric Utilities

The Pennsylvania State Grange passed policy that seeks to restructure electric utilities to benefit consumers by increasing service and options and lowering costs. Restructuring will also create new market options for electric energy generated by agricultural enterprises and other alternative energy sources.

"We are in favor of this as long as it can be done in a manner that can ensure the reliability of our electrical supply," Shambaugh said, "as well as the ability of the suppliers to anticipate and respond in a timely manner to projected increased in energy demands."

The policy includes provisions to ensure: all classes of consumers benefit: 100 percent of stranded costs must be recovered and should be borne by those who leave their current supplier (a.k.a. "exit fees"); all consumers must have access to electric service; safety and reliability must not be jeopardized; exclusive delivery service must be maintained; cooperatives must be allowed to compete; and cooperatives must remain exempt from PUC regulation.

Interstate Refuse

The Grange strongly believes that rural areas in Pennsylvania are being adversely impacted from the flow of interstate refuse due to excessive traffic, environmental degradation and lower land values. The delegate body passed a resolution that looks to implement legislation permitting a municipality with a landfill or considering a landfill to have the option of restricting out-of-state trash.

"This resolution started out as a local issue, but the implication of out-of-state refuse flowing across our borders is much broader than that," Shambaugh said. "The membership sought to establish policy that will hopefully lead to legislation that will restrict this practice."

The Grange also reinforced its position that encourages municipalities to utilize source reduction, resource recovery, composting, developing alternative energy sources, community planning and recycling as methods to reduce dependency on landfills.

Hunting License Fees

For years farmers have faced financial difficulties due to deer crop damage, Shambaugh said, but without receiving any restitution. Now, the Pennsylvania Game Commission seeks an increase in license fees, despite having a balance of $40 million used to collect interest for the agency. The Grange believes farmers should have access to the additional funds that will be generated by a potential increase in hunting license fees.

"The delegate body passed policy that supports a 20 percent across-the-board increase in hunting licenses, and that half the increase be used to fund a catastrophic game crop damage loss program," Shambaugh said. "We believe the crop loss program will help lessen the financial burden that farmers have had to bear for many years."

Northeast Dairy Compact

Since the U.S. passed the provisions of the Northeast Dairy Compact, the Pennsylvania State Grange seeks immediate action by the state legislature as soon as the compact is approved by the New York State Legislature.

"By pooling milk together collectively as a region, we'll get better milk prices for our dairy farmers," Shambaugh said. "The policy asks our legislature to start drafting legislation now so that it can be considered upon approval by New York, which is a stipulation in the compact."

Telephone Rate Rebalancing

The Grange has been in a yearlong battle with Bell Atlantic over rebalancing telephone rates by lowering them in urban sections of the state while raising them in rural areas.

The delegate body drafted a resolution that asks Governor Tom Ridge and the legislature to back a recent decision by an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) against Bell. ALJ decided bell's rebalancing petition to the PUC does not have merit because their current telephone rates cover their costs. The PUC is expected to hand down its decision on the petition in December.

"The judge concluded that Bell Atlantic's current residential rates cover its costs," Shambaugh said, "and further stated that its proposal was an attempt to place the risks of competition on those captive rate payers rather than on its shareholders."

The Pennsylvania State Grange is an agricultural, rural and community service organization dedicated to improving the lives of rural Pennsylvanians through legislative action, community service and member services. There are over 31,000 members in 66 PA counties.

Grange Urges Rejection Of Bell Atlantic's Plan

WARREN (Warren Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange is asking the governor and members of the state legislature to endorse a judge's recommendation to the Public Utility Commission to reject Bell Atlantic's proposal to rebalance telephone rates.

Delegates at the Pennsylvania State Grange's 124th annual convention here last week requested that a letter be sent to state officials asking them to back the ruling by Administrative Law Judge Louis G. Cocheres.

The ruling advises the commission to reject the telephone company's plan to raise rates in rural sections of the state while lowering them in urban areas based on the fact that Bell's current rates cover its costs.

The Grange, with over 32,000 members across the state, has policy that opposes any attempt to rebalance telephone rates.

"The judge concluded that Bell Atlantic's current residential rates cover its costs," Brenda Shambaugh, PA State Grange legislative director, said, "and further stated that its proposal was an attempt to place the risks of competition on those captive rate payers rather than on its shareholders."

The Grange has been extremely active in voicing its concern with the Bell proposal since the company filed its request on Jan. 10. The Grange has testified at numerous public hearings in Harrisburg and around the state and has written letters stating that the rate rebalance plan is in violation of the PUC's 1994 Bell order under Chapter 30, which states that Bell is required to adhere to a rate freeze.

In addition, Shambaugh said restructuring Bell's local charges means an increase for a segment of their rurral clientele whose rates are then not frozen.

Telephone rataes are projected to rise as much as 21 percent in some rural areas of the state if the plan is approved, according to published reports. A final decision is expected from the PUC by Dec. 17.

As an advocate for rural Pennsylvania, the Grange is a leading force in agricultural and rural issues at the local, state and federal levels. The Grange is also a community service organization dedicated to improving the lives of Pennsylvanians through legislative action, offering member services and participating in community affairs.

The Pennsylvania State Grange is a grassroots organization which receives its direction from its members on a variety of issues. Local Granges, numbering nearly 500 in Pennsylvania, discuss and approve resolutions on issues such as nutrient management, education, taxation, health care, transportation, agriculture and rural development at its annual state convention.

Once a resolution is approved by the delegate body, it becomes state Grange policy. If the resolution is of national scope, then it is sent to the National Grange convention in November.

Pennsylvania State Grange Announces Competition Winners

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Members of the Youth and Deaf Activities departments took center stage on the first night of the 124th annual Pennsylvania State Grange Convention here with rousing performance in public speaking and sign-a-song competitions.

Martha Ebersole and her son, Brian, of Community Grange, Perry County, took first-place honors in their respective age groups (30 and older and 14-19) in the public speaking contest.

Martha, who is the director of the state Grange Youth Department, discussed the role individuals play in other people's lives while Brian talked about the value of Grange involvement and the rewards of being a Grange member.

"I go around the state encouraging members to enter this contest," Martha said about her decision to enter the contest for the first time, "and I decided that I should practice what I preach and lead by example."

The Youth Department of the state Grange is for members ages 14-35. Youth members attend annual retreats, a summer camp and leadership training seminars to prepare them to be the leaders of tomorrow. The youth porgram also promotes fellowship and socials that lead to friendships that last a lifetime.

Jennifer Viscusi of Venango County, who is studying for a career in sign language, placed first in the individual division of the sign-a-song program.

Deaf and hard of hearing awareness is the community service project of the Pennsylvania State and National Grange. The sign-a-song contest is one of the outreaches of the Grange's Deaf Activities Department, which promotes sound hearing and works to assist individuals, schools and social agencies that serve the deaf community.

Other winners were announced.

The public speaking winners were:

For ages 14-19, 1. Brian Ebersole, Community Grange #1675, Perry County; 2. Jennifer Campbell, Perry Valley Grangte #1804, Perry County.

Ages 20-29, 1. Chris Straub, Stony Point #1694, Mercer County; 2. Floyd Buffington, Community Grange #2048, Dauphin County.

Ages 30 and older, 1. Martha Ebersole, Community Grange #1675, Perry County; 2. Laura McMillin, Westfield Grange #1514, Lawrence County; 3. Ila May McMillin, Westfield Grange #1514, Lawrence County.

Individual winners in the sign-a-song contest were, 1. Jenny Viscusi, Wesley Grange #1675, Venango County; 2. Brian Ebersole, Community Grange #1767, Perry County; 3. Roy McMillin, Westfield Grange #1514, Lawrence County.

Group winners were 1. Laura and Ila May McMillin, Westfield Grange #1514, Lawrence County.

The first-place winners advance to the 1997 Mid-Atlantic Grange Conference in Delaware next April, and the first-place winners at that conference will compete at the 1997 National Grange Convention.

Deputy Secretary Addresses Grange Delegates

WARREN (Warren Co.) — The deputy secretary in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture said recently that the Ridge Administration is working to make the industry more profitable during the annual State of Agriculture and Rural Affairs address to the Pennsylvania State Grange delegate body.

Russell Redding, deputy secretary of agriculture, spoke to nearly 1,000 people here for the 124th edition of the Pennsylvania State Grange Convention. Delegates consider about 80 resolutions on transportation, environmental, health and welfare, agriculture, dairy and local government issues.

As a grass-roots lobbying organization, the delegate body votes on resolutions that, if passed, become Grange policy. The Grange's Legislative Department takes that policy to Capitol Hill to seek the support of the state Legislature.

"One of the ways to address profitability is to find new markets and develop new value-added products for Pennsylvania food processors," Redding said. "Ninety-six percent of the world's consumers are outside the United States. We feel it is imperative that Pennsylvania's farmers be a part of this global market, and we are working to open new opportunities for exporting products."

Redding said the public must realize that 60 to 65 percent of farm family income comes from off-farm employment, but that agribusiness and agriculture still provide jobs for 600,000 Pennsylvanians.

"The prosperity of our farms and our rural communities is absolutely linked and farms and agribusiness are an integrral part of the economy," Redding said during his remarks at the Library Theater. "That is why the Workmen's Compensation Reform passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Tom Ridge was so important."

Redding said that while 80 percent of what the department does is regulatory, the administration is working to address regulatory concerns.

Hushons Take Brown Swiss

Brothers Three Nutty Buddy, a senior 2-year-old, and Lake Lane Pebbles, a 4-year-old. All three are Emory daughters, named premier sire at Madison, Wis., during the World Dairy Expo, and an animal bred by Dean Daubert, a Lock Haven-area Brown Swiss breeder.

The entire Hushon family made the trip to Louisville this year, and on Tuesday this week, their enthusiasm was running high in anticipation of the trip from their rural Delta home to the tanbark of Louisville.

And while the entire family went, the focus of attention will probably be on 15-year-old Joshua Hushon who has accumulated a number of trophies showing Brown Swiss in just four years.

Dan and Pattie have three sons, Joshua, 15, Jacob, 13, and Joseph, 10. It's the first time all three boys are going to Louisville for the show, though the Brown Swiss prefix for the Hushons is named in their recognition.

While Dan packed the trailer and the boys got equipment and things ready for the trip, they talked about their cows and how they got involved with Brown Swiss.

Since 1980, Dan and Patti tried to get a dairy operation up and running, and, by their own admission, at one time had themselves spread out too thin — cows on one property, heifers on another, and they lived on another.

They started with Holsteins, which they still have. In fact, they showed the grand champion at the Lancaster Holstein show this year in Quarryville, an accomplishment. They also have done well at district state Holstein shows.

However, the Brown Swiss breed is the direction they are headed. They are willing to sell their Holsteins, currently housed at nearby friend John Stewart's 100-stanchion barn, mixed in with Stewart's cows. They have 30,000-pound cows. The pedigrees are easily tracked to outstanding Holstein breeders in the state.

The Hoslteins are for sale, because the Hushons aren't in a position to milk. They don't have the facilities, the time, or the desire right now to develop them. They do have a farm and a heifer barn at home where they raise their show Brown Swiss.

Except for two nurse cows they keep at home to raise show calves, the rest of the Brown Swiss in milk run with Stewarts and their Holsteins, milked twice-per-day, no BST, and within the past year, eating a totally mixed production ration.

For 12 years Dan has been doing all the artificial insemination on the farm and for the past seven years he's been working fulltime for Genex. Patti works part time for the Holstein Association helping Clarence Stauffer with registrations. She also works part time at a nearby funeral home.

But they got interested in Brown Swiss, and in January 1991, the Hushons purchased two calves from a Glen Rock area breeder — Panda and Louisa.

Louisa about died three times, Patti said. Panda was shown to 4-H districts and was named junior champion at the York Fair, since it was one of two Brown Swiss entered.

Then they purchased a heifer from a Maryland farm where Dan was doing some breeding. There was one cow there that he liked and the owner said that if she had a heifer calf, Dan could have her.

(Turn to Page A37)

Of the cows which form the backbone of the Brown Swiss cow families in the Hushon's Brothers Three herd, this one is 4-year-old Lake Lane Pebbles, classified in July as an Excellent 91-point in July with a 93-point mammary. She is one of Joshua Hushon's entries in the Southeastern National Brown Swiss Show. Here, Joshua holds her halter as she is named reserve grand champion of the Eastern National Brown Swiss Junior Show in Harrisburg. Pebbles has been a Bell Ringer at the state level for Joshua, and is one of his hopes for a first national Bell Ringer.

Joshua Hushon's bred and owned Brothers Three Nutty Buddy was first place senior 2-year-old Brown Swiss in the Junior show at the World Dairy Expo, was first in its class at the Eastern National Brown Swiss open show, was named a reserve Bell Ringer in 1994, and a state Bell Ringer in 1995 and again this year, and is now to compete for Joshua Hushon in Louisville.

Chester Holstein Club Honors Members

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST FALLOWFIELD (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Holstein Club met recently at the West Fallowfield Christian School to review the past year's actions and events, and, and honor members' outstanding achievements.

President Ed Breckbill introduced guests and reviewed the minutes of last year, along with a review of members achievements.

Patti Hushon, of Delta, serves the Pennsylvania Holstein Association on a part-time basis to help with registration work.

She said that for some of the catchup programs, members can get at no extra cost a representative from Pa. Holstein Association to come to the farm, take photos and fill out the registration paperwork.

She reviewed the programs and offerings available to members.

The group made a special recognition of Walter Wurster, the recently retired county extension agent, who continues to help with some of the programs as a volunteer.

He told the group that his position is to be replaced, and that of Alan Strock, the former farm management specialist who left the extension program for private employment.

Wurster also told the group that he has been involved with the Act 319 (Clean and Green preferential property tax assessment program) reassessment and that farmers should be pleased, though final word was still up to the county commissioners.

Bill Allen, Pa. Holstein director of sales, talked to the group about sales opportunities, while Jane

Chester Holstein Club Honors Members

Pepple, state director for the Chester club, discussed renewing membership (membership year began Oct. 1), possibilities with the spring calf sale, and the club cheese sale (Holstein cheddar sells at $15 per 5 pounds, while commercial brand sells at $34.99 per 5 pounds.)

She also said that when people talk about the Chester Holstein Club, some people consider the club just for those with registered cattle. "It's not true," she said. "Our club is not just for registered breeders. It's for people interested in Holstein cattle."

She said that very possibly, the most profitable animal to market may very well be an "identified" grade cow. For more details on registration programs available, contact the association.

In other business, the group also elected four directors, Bob Hewitt, Glenn Ranck, Sam Stoltzfus, and Duane Hershey.

Hershey and Breckbill shared duties given a brief slide show. Hershey reviewed the spring tour to Centre County area Holstein breeders, while Breckbill reviewed other activities.

In youth awards, the club annually recognizes outstanding FFA members. From Owen J. Roberts FFA Chapter, Julie Kulp was recognized; Michael Troop from Octorara FFA; and Desiree Tomlinson from Oxford FFA.

Outstanding 4-H members recognized were Misti Gawerys for having the best project and record book for a first year member; Vicki Hewitt, for being the outstanding 4-Her overall.

In youth production awards, Christy Guest was first having the top 2-year-old with the highest protein production. Her Century Oak Tesk Justine made 23,207 pounds of milk, with 817 pounds of protein in 305 days.

Tom Herr took second with his cow Frilly, with a 305-day record of 24,757 pounds milk, 804 pounds protein. Rusty Herr was third with his animal Frizzy, with 21,392 pounds milk, 763 pounds protein.

The award for the top protein-producing mature cow owned by a club junior member went to Tom Herr with his Herrvales Judgment Gaylen, a 3-year-old that made 30,307 pounds milk, 1,023 pounds protein.

In second place was J.R. St.John, whose 3-year-old cow Hillary made 29,247 pounds of milk and 941 pounds of protein in 324 days.

Mike Troop's cow Micky, was third posting production as a 3-year-old at 28,242 pounds of milk, and 880 pounds protein in 294 days.

Frederick County Farm Bureau Celebrates 75th Year

WALKERSVILLE, Md. — Frederick County farm families gathered together here at the Walkersville Fire Hall to celebrate three quarters of a century of agricultural organization through the Frederick County Farm Bureau. This year's annual dinner meeting marked the 75th anniversary of the organization, founded in 1921.

Approximately 375 of the county's 1,031 Farm Bureau members attended the fried shrimp and roast beef dinner catered by Walkersville Volunteer Fire Co. #11. In addition to the regular business meeting, the evening was a tribute to the members, past and present, who have contributed to the strength of the organization by graciously donating their time and energy.

Organizing the evening's festivities and planning anniversary activities throughout the year is a dynamic committee of farm women headed by Peggy H. Garst. In addition to women's committee chairperson Louise Stup, and vice chairperson Evelyn Wilcom, the 75th Anniversary committee consists of Mary Jane Roop, Terrie Stup, Alice Wilcom, Terry Lambert, Shirley Enfield, Barbara E. Crum, Jane Smith, Marv Sue Grossnickle, Carold Doody, and Shirley Zimmerman.

"Instead of a keynote speaker, we decided to pat ourselves on the back," explained Toastmistress Mary Jane Roop in her opening remarks. Tokens of appreciation were given to past presidents, young farmer chairpersons, and women's chairpersons in attendance for their service to the county Farm Bureau.

"If we don't speak up for ourselves, who do you think will do it?" challenged Maryland Farm Bureau President William Knill in a speech following the meal. "There are a whole host of issues, including land use, environmental forces, and urban pressures," which farm bureau members need to actively address, Knill said, speaking of the changes the organization has witnessed over the last 75 years in a county and state increasingly threatened by the pressures of urbanization. "One of the biggest mistakes we can make is to dwell on the things we can't change, instead of looking at the change we can make."

"Successful farming can't be done in a vacuum," advocated Knill, "it involves reaching out into the larger community of farmers and the general public as well. I have a conviction that if you do not go beyond your comfort level, you only reach half your potential," he said. Knill is also a board member of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

A special plaque was presented to Catoctin Mountain Orchard, represented by Robert and Fran Black. The Thurmont fruit growers have provided fresh, local fruit to the county farm bureau for various functions and for gifts. The Black family exemplifies the kind of outreach Knill referred to, hosting tours of their orchard and farm market for schools and other groups throughout the year.

Farm royalty present at the event included Melissa Willard, 1996 county farm queen, Amy Ramsburg, Diane Ogg, and Brianne Myers, farm princesses, Dora Smith, dairy princess, and Heather Leatherman, county 4-H queen.

Jenny Rhoderick created a tiered cake that served 375 for the occasion. The marble cake with white buttercream roses also featured a separate cake with an airbrushed 75th anniversary logo designed by local farm wife Lucinda "Cindy" Rhoderick.

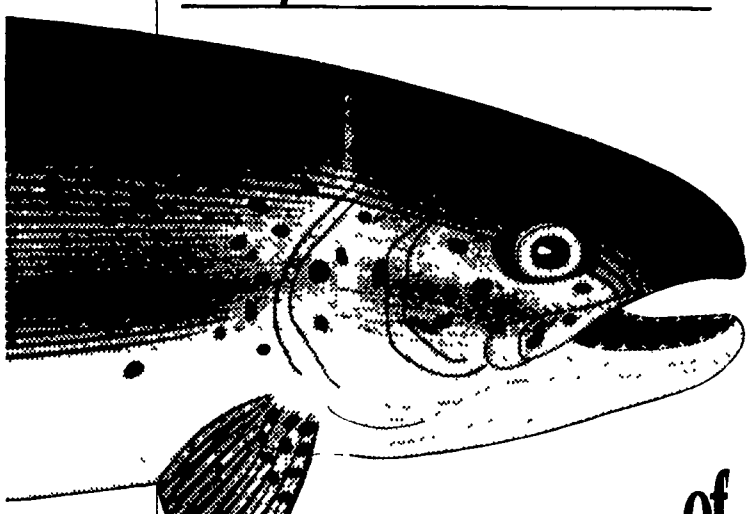
Pennsylvania Streams and Lakes

GREAT GIFT !



Stream MAP of Pennsylvania

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Pennsylvania is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the Lake Erie tributaries to the Delaware River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This 3 foot by 5 foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus lakes. That's almost three times the earth's circumference!

Professor Higbee's® STREAMS

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible.. a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible. because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps"
John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake then "Professor Higbee's Stream Maps" are without question the finest

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman

FREE LOCATION GUIDEBOOK INCLUDED

He saw a native man, reaching down to the sand and lifting up starfish, throwing them back into the ocean. The tourist spoke to the native, asking him what he was doing, throwing the starfish back into the ocean. What kind of difference would that make?

"And with a smile, he said, 'I made a difference to that one,'" said Rech.

She told those at the banquet that she was "humbled and awed at the responsibility to care for children." She said, "May the child within each of you see the joy and magic in every day."

At the banquet, David L. Kantner, assistant to the regional director of the Penn State Cooperative Extension southeast region, spoke about why the support from county government and other agencies is so essential to extension. He reminded those in attendance that extension "is your program."

Trudy Dougherty, cooperative extension director, said that applications for the vacant dairy agent position from the retirement of Walt Wurster would be screened Wednesday. A new dairy agent, and the farm management position vacated by Alan W. Strock (who left extension for a position at Blue Ball National Bank in September), would be announced early in 1997. Also, a business management agent for the green industry in the county would be announced also in 1997.

Four new directors were elected for a three-year term from January 1997-December 1999. They are:

• Jeffrey Alexander, Coatesville, foam operator, Norwood Coating Products, from Valley Township. He is active in community concerns and is a member of the NAACP.

• Chris Alonzo, Kennett Square, mushroom farmer at Pietro Industries, Inc., who resides in East Marlborough Township. Alonzo is secretary of the community awareness committee for the mushroom industry and active in the Tatnall Alumni Committee.

• Kevin Charles Turner, Coatesville, assistant wholesale manager/horticulturist at Waterloo Gardens, Exton. He resides in West Bradford Township. He is a member of the Northern Virginia Nurserymen's Association and of North Carolina State Friends of the Arboretum.

• Deborah Streeter, Ardmore, financial adviser for Fund Resources, Wayne.

Frederick County Farm Bureau

Officers were elected during the business meeting. Michael Wilcom will serve as president, with Alan Brauer as 1st vice president, and Gorron Flickinger as 2nd vice president. Directors for the regions include: Group 1: Donald Lambert, James Keilholtz, and Mike Valentine; Group 2: Charles Black, Trego Zimmerman, and Frank Burrier; Group 3: William Fouche', David Crum, and Clyde Lenhart; Group 4: David Hawker, Walter Gordon, and Hal Zimmerman; Group 5: John Burrier, Paul Coblentz, and Zene "Jake" Wolfe.

All 37 resolutions proposed were passed, with no additions.

Officers for the women's committee will be Louise Stup, chairman, Evelyn Wilcom, vice chairman, Terrie Stup, recording secretary, Terry Lambert, corresponding secretary, Louise Ediger, treasurer, Marianne Browning, chaplain and historian, and Peggy Garst, women's information director. Directors will be: Group 1: Peg Long, Margaret Wachter, and Frances Black, Group 2: Doris Toms, Mary Sue Grossnickle, and Jenny Rhoderick, Group 3: Evelyn Gaver, Charlotte Montgomery, and Rosalie Glisan, Group 4: Pat Culler, Hattie Loy, and Jean Hipkins, Group 5: Sylvia Keller, Janice Beachley, and Sandy Nicholson.

William Knill, president of Maryland Farm Bureau, and board member of American Farm Bureau Federation, addresses the group.

Louise Stup, chairman of the women's committee, and Mike Wilcom, Frederick County Farm Bureau president, cut the cake created by Jenny Rhoderick for the anniversary meeting.

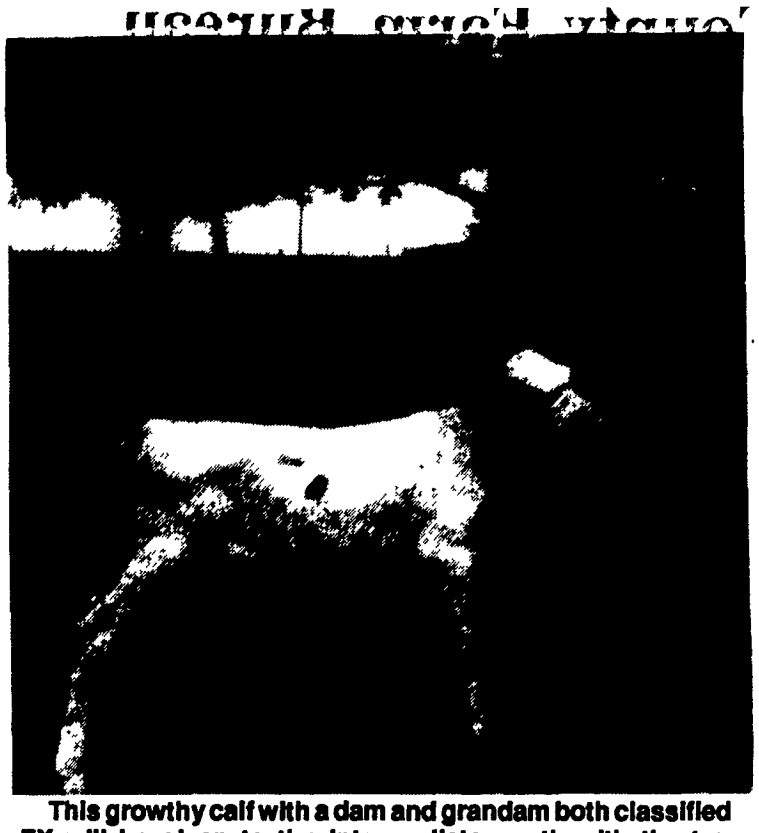
Holstein Calf Gift To Lancaster Youth Again



This growthy calf with a dam and grandam both classified EX will be given to the intermediate youth with the top record book score at the Lancaster County Holstein Association's annual banquet Thursday evening. Showing the calf is Matt Welk, owner of the calf.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — A growthy September calf with a wide, square rump to support a potential excellent udder like her dam and granddam is the gift calf for someone in the youth program of the Lancaster County Holstein Association. The ET calf from Matt Welk, Wakefield, will be given to the intermediate youth who has the top record book score.

Each year the association, along with a Lancaster County Holstein breeder, present a good calf at the annual banquet to encourage young people in the youth program. This year the banquet is scheduled to be held November 14 at the Hoffman Building in Quarryville. Starting time is 7:00 p.m.

The calf comes from an excellent Canadian cow family with the dam classified EX with EX ms and a top record of 27,650m 4.5% 1238f 3.6% 994p. She is fresh again milking over 100 lbs. per day since mid-summer. The granddam is also EX92 with EX ms and 33,898m 1,254f 1,016p.

Welk has a group of full ET sisters on the ground and a group of embryos from the same flush have been sold back to the original owner of the dam in Canada. The gift calf is bred right for showing.

The family-style banquet will also feature lighthearted entertainment by Dave Rojahn for the whole family. Three new directors will be elected. Cost for the evening is $10 for adults, $4 for children ages 4-10, and under 4 children are free. You can still make reservations by calling one of the committee members now. The committee members are Darrel Mills, 4647202, Rick Hess, 291-9343, and Donna Coleman, 687-6844.

Pa.DHIA Remembers Bob Akers

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Bob Akers, a long-time technician and truly a friend to the entire dairy industry, died Oct. 14, following a brief illness.

Bob was known years ago as the "check-tester" for Pa.DHIA. During the last several years, he was used to fill in for vacations and illnesses as well as conducting verification tests around the state of Pennsylvania.

Having served Pa.DHIA for 40 years, Bob was recently awarded an engraved statue of the Penn State Nittany Lion.

Our prayers and condolences go out to the family of Bob Akers. Words are so inadequate at a time of sorrow, but comfort comes in the knowledge that others share the grief. Bob touched the hearts of many and will be missed by all.

The late Bob Akers works at a laptop computer as a Pa.DHIA technician.

Board of Directors to Downsize

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Board of Directors of PA DHIA has voted to downsize the Board from 18 Directors to 11 Directors. According to Dave Slusser, general manager, the new Board will be elected at the District Meetings set for January and February 1997.

As a result of strategic long range planning, which has been under way for the last two years, the Board voted at the October 1996 meeting on the proposal. The Planning Committee carefully studied every aspect of our Board structure, and governing procedures before making a recommendation to the Board. Delegate elections and number of members per delegate will remain the same as before. The director will present the plan to the membership at the 1996 county annual meetings and the district meetings.

The new membership districts will encompass approximately one eleventh of the total membership in PA DHIA. District boundaries will coincide with county lines. Each county association will have one delegate for every 40 voting members or fraction thereof, or one delegate minimum if there is less than 40 members in a county. The delegate election procedure and numbers will be the same as before. The Board is mandated by the Bylaws to review the districts every three years, and because of the Strategic Long Range Planning Committee recommendations, they decided to downsize at the same time.

The procedure selected by the Board and dictated by the Bylaws will require all director positions shall be declared vacant and nominations shall be taken for a new director at each district by the delegates present. District 1 will elect a new director for one year, district 2 for two years, and district 3 for three years, and each district thereafter up to 11 shall be elected for a one-, two- or three-year period. Thereafter succeeding elections will be for a three-year term.

Each county unit is strongly encouraged to participate in this winter's district meetings, so it is important they are represented by their delegates. The entire board is up for election. Other topics that will be presented at the local and district meetings are the new National DHIA Code of Ethics, true protein testing, MUN analysis, and the Heifer Net project under development.

Performance Tested Ram Sale Successful

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Several hundred sheep producers attended the activities and heard from a slate of educational speakers at the Pennsylvania's annual sheep producers field day and Pennsylvania's 18th Annual Performance Tested Ram Sale.

There were a number of demonstrations and commercial exhibits as well. The youth activities were also well attended.

In the Performance Tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe Sale the senior Suffolk ram consigned by Hall's Suffolks sold to Samuel Smail of Mt. Pleasant, for $400.

The 14 spring-born Suffolk ram lambs sold for a total of $2,900, to average $207.

The top-indexing Suffolk was consigned by Breezeview Farm and was sold to Jason Brower of Julian. The top-selling Suffolk was consigned by Cole Suffolks and sold to Thomas Unger of Northampton, for $480.

The group of 10 fall-born Dorsets were in high demand and returned an average sale price of $348. Two top-indexing senior Dorsets, bred by Nix Besser Farms, sold to Max W. DeHart of Milton for $350 and Terry Louise Roup of Danville for $400.

The top-selling ram of the sale was also consigned by Nix Besser Farms and sold to Max W. DeHart of Milton, for $1,075.

The spring-born Dorsets returned an average sale price of $217. The top-selling junior Dorset, consigned by Jamie Banbury of Danville, Ohio, sold to John Mulligan of Belmont, N.Y. for $725.

The top-indexing Dorset consigned by Kenneth Shifflet, as well as the third high-indexing ram consigned by Meamie Sullivan both sold for the second highest price, of this group, of $250. These rams sold to Benjamin Hepburn of Williamsport and Joan Reifman of Northfield, Ohio, respectively.

The fall-born Hampshire consigned by Tom Nickeson sold to Max W. DeHart for $530. The top-indexing spring-born Hampshire, also the fastest-gaining ram on test over all breeds, owned by Everett Hampshires sold to Debbie Wilhelm of Rural Valley, for $240.

The lone Corriedale bred by Roger Bowman was selected by Victor Decker, of Tunkhannock, for the winning bid of $140.

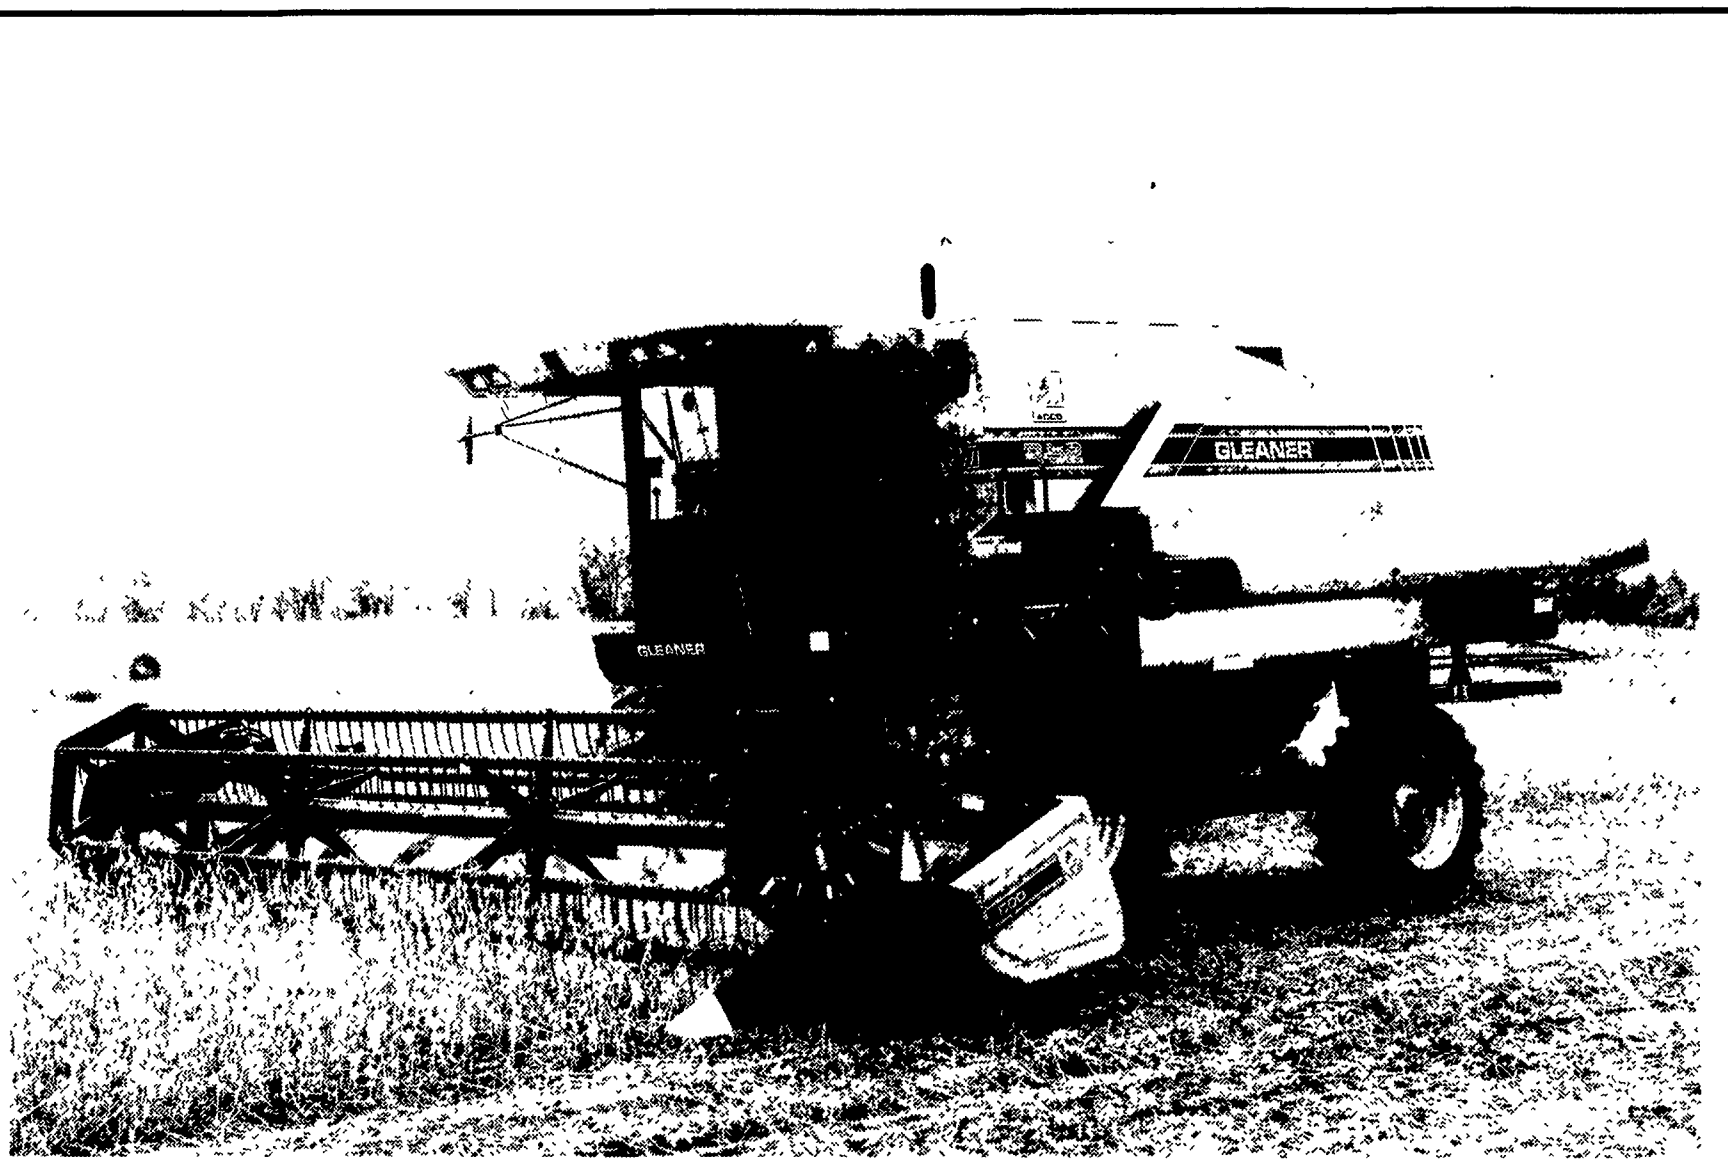
The Oxford ram from Everett Oxfords sold to David Schwoyer of Fleetwood, for $280.

The fine Polypay ram bred by John Scott Jr. of Princeton, W.V., sold to Charles Caimes of Ligonier, for $220.

The Shropshire ram from the Robert Calvert family sold to John Spaulding of Prosperity, for $140.

The last ram in the sale was a Tunis ram consigned by Barbara Carstensen sold to M.J. Pratt of Rebersburg for $190.

The 43 rams sold totaled $10,910 to average $254. The performance breeders that had rams on test also consigned a nice group of invitational ewes. The 13 Dorset ewes tallyed a sale total of $2,595 to average $200. The 11 Suffolk ewes offered averaged $194.



R52. Engineered For Better Returns.

The R52 may be the middle child, but it's not shy when it comes to delivering powerful performance. Like its other GLEANER® combine brothers, the R52 has many of the same rugged characteristics. In fact, about the only way you can tell these combines apart is by their bin capacity. The 225-bushel or optional 245-bushel grain tank makes this a favorite of farmers who have mid-range acreage. Just like the other GLEANER combines, the R52 comes with a Natural Flow Harvesting System that has a unique transverse mounting cylinder which moves your crop in a ribbon-like fashion from the concave through the cage. So your crop never changes direction, giving you higher grain quality. The 64 inch cleaning shoe (the longest in the industry) contains an adjustable chaffer and sieve for even finer cleaning and separation. The R52 has a powerful liquid-cooled engine that can take on even the toughest farming conditions. The turbocharged, diesel power plant offers you the latest in technology, requires low maintenance, and holds 100 gallons of fuel, allowing you to work longer without having to stop to refuel. To get a closer look at the R52, just stop by and see us. You'll agree, the GLEANER R52 is engineered for better returns.

Dairylea Files Petition For Pilot Program

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative Inc. filed a petition today with the New York State Public Service Commission (PSC) for an electricity pilot program, under which farmers and food processors in upstate New York will be able to purchase electricity from suppliers of their choice, Rick Smith, Dairylea's chief executive officer, said at the Cooperative's annual meeting, held in Syracuse, N.Y.

"The proposed pilot program marks an important step toward the goal of reducing New York's high electric rates. By doing so, it allows farmers — the backbone of the upstate New York economy — to buy competitively priced electricity. This, and the pilot's inclusion of food processors — including dairy plants — provides much needed economic development opportunities for rural New York," said Smith.

The electric retail pilot program is being proposed for the areas served by Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, New York State Electric and Gas Corporation, Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation and Orange and Rockland Utilities, Inc.

Going forward, Dairylea, being represented before the PSC by Wheeled Electric Power Company (WEPCO), plans to aggregate the electricity buying of not only its more than 3,500 dairy farmer members and affiliates in New York, but also others farmers and food processors alike, in securing lower electricity rates.

John O'Brien, president of WEPCO, stated that, "We are proud to be associated with this effort to bring the benefits of electric industry restructuring to one of the oldest and most important industries in New York State."

Smith commented that Dairylea decided to take the lead in electric deregulation for agriculture because of the savings it could result in for Dairylea members.

"Our mission statement focuses on maximizing net income at the farm. Facilitating the bulk purchase of electricity furthers our mission and is similar to the types of programs that we've already developed to help improve our members' bottom lines."

Estimates indicate that the deregulation of electricity could result in cost reductions of up to 25 percent, added Smith, which translate to a cost savings for most dairy farmers of about 10 cents per hundredweight.

"The pilot program will provide valuable experience with large-scale aggregation of customers," said Smith. "As the PSC has observed, aggregation is the way in which consumers, including Dairylea members and affiliates, can obtain favorable prices and service options."

According to Smith, the program — the State's first multi-utility retail competition pilot — will yield valuable information about market behavior and systems operations throughout most of the State. "The knowledge gained from this project is critical in moving toward the PSC's goal of initiating retail competition in electricity supply by 1998," Smith explained.

Wheeled Electric Power Company is an electricity marketing company based in Uniondale, N.Y. Wheeled Electric is currently providing electricity service directly to consumers in the Orange and Rockland pilot program in New York, as well as pilot programs in New Hampshire and Illinois.

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based, agricultural service organization, cooperatively owned by dairy farmers throughout the Northeast. It markets more than 4.5 billion pounds of milk annually and participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

Pa. Holstein Association Begins New Membership Year

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association 1996-97 membership year started Oct. 1, and all current members were sent a membership application renewal.

Benefits of membership in the Pa. Holstein Association includes:

• A saving of $6 for each registration of a calf under three months of age, if the calf owner is also a member of National Holstein Association.

• A subscription to the Pennsylvania Holstein Profiles periodical.

• Participation in edcuational, promotional and service programs at the local, district and state levels, such as field days, barn meetings, tours, picnics, annual meetings, shows, sales (domestic and international), and support of a valuable youth program that is second to none.

This and more are part of the $25 annual base membership.

By being a state and national member, registering three calves saves enough money to pay the base fee.

A 5-percent discount is available for those who renew or begin membership by Dec. 1.

Perhaps the most important benefit of belonging to the association is contact with fellow Holstein enthusiasts — having a barn full of registered Holsteins isn't necessary to enjoy the felowship and mutual support that comes from being a member of the association.

Pro Ag Urges Action

MESHOPPEN (Wyoming Co.) — Arden Tewksbury, manager of the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag), is urging all dairy farmers and business people to immediately contact United States Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman and urge him to install a floor price of $15 per CWT. under the Basic Formula Price which is announced on the 5th of each month.

The Basic Formula Price is the benchmark that establishes all milk prices. Milk prices paid to area dairy farmers will start declining on October's produced milk and by early winter the nose dive in milk prices could be as much as $2.50 per CWT.

At a time when the dairy farmers' cost of production is at an all-time high, it is certainly not the time to allow milk prices to decline.

The only immediate way to prevent the milk price decline is by Secretary Glickman to use his executive authority and install the floor price.

Secretary Glickman can be reached by calling (202) 720-3631 or fax: (202) 720-2166.

The secretary's address is U.S. Secretary Dan Glickman, U.S.D.A. Room 200 - A, 14th & Independence Avenue S.W., Washington D.C. 20250.

Pro Ag can be reached at (717) 833-5776.

Hushons Take Brown Swiss

That cow was Bambi. She didn't have papers. However, with the help of the Pa. Brown Swiss Association, and Wayne Sliker, of Ohio, they were able to track down the pedigree and purchase the proper registration in time for the 1992 York County roundup. In fact the registration papers came to the extension agent the day of the roundup.

Bambi went to states and was fifth in her class in the state Brown Swiss dairy show.

Another heifer came from a Harford County, Maryland farm. She was small for her age and Joshua used her for showmanship competitions. She was bred to Emory and the calf was Brothers Three Nutty Buddy.

Nutty Buddy went on to be the first senior 2-year-old at the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show, and also the second best bred and owned. She was a 1994 reserve Bell Ringer, and a Bell Ringer in 1995 and 1996.

In 1992, the family purchased their first consignment at the Pennsylvania Brown Swiss Sale during the All-American.

Patti said the calf was not exactly what Dan wanted, and she said that she was almost afraid she made a mistake, but Lake Lane Pebbles turned out to mature well, going to an Excellent 91, and as Joshua's animal, she was the reserve grand champion this year at the Eastern National Brown Swiss show, and she was grand champion in the junior show last year at Louisville, and this year she was the first Brown Swiss to knowledge to be named supreme champion of the York County 4-H dairy roundup.

This past week, Joshua found out his Brown Swiss earned him four Pennsylvania Bell Ringers, and one reserve Bell Ringer.

Another of his calves, Old Mill Jetway Fancy, was third this year at Madison, and first in the junior division for its class. It was first winter calf at the Eastern National during the Pa. All-American Dairy Show.

Though expressly fond of a somewhat physically less than perfect specimen, Josh's brother Jacob also has a reserve Bell Ringer, with his Lake Lane Snowwhite winter calf.

Youngest brother Joseph has a calf out of Nutty Buddy, Brothers Three Nutrageous, which was third in its class at the Junior show of the Eastern National.

After such a start, the family is definetly a Brown Swiss family. Patti said she really enjoys the temperament of the breed, and also that of the people in the breed organization.

However, she said she is surprised there isn't more enthusiasm for them. In the past couple of years, Joshua has been the only Brown Swiss exhibitor from Pennsylvania to compete in the spring national show in New York, and also the only Pennsylvanian Brown Swiss competitor to travel to Kentucky.

But Joshua has been facing competition, and he has been doing exceptionally well, as noted by Sliker, and others well known in the Brown Swiss circles.

During the past year's Maryland Brown Swiss Futurity, his two 2-year-olds were two of the top four animals.

Holding his reserve grand champion banner of the 1996 Eastern National Brown Swiss Junior Show, Joshua Hushon sits at his desk in his bedroom, where he has national, state and local trophies, ribbons and plaques earned during the past four years by showing just three of his Brown Swiss. Other ribbons and trophies are kept elsewhere.

In fact, Patti said that Brown Swiss will apparently be the breed of choice for the family. "This year we switched emphasis on showing, from taking mostly Holsteins and a few Brown Swiss, to mostly Brown Swiss."

Joshua said the rarity of the family's winning streak is not lost on him. According to Joshua, Dan Gilbert from New Generation Genetics in Brooklyn, Wis., said, "I had accomplished a lot at 15 that most breeders don't accomplish in a lifetime. he said it was the best group of young animals at Harrisburg at the Eastern National.

Patti said the family is happy to be working together and even happier to have done well. "We've been at it six years, and really been fortunate."

Grangers Must Work Together

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. — The 124th annual session of the New York State Grange got off to a rousing start with a banquet and program in the Bonnie Castle Resort's "Home of the Stars."

More than 400 people gathered in the hotel's banquet facility to enjoy dinner and remarks by Farm Bureau President John Lincoln and Grand Master Bruce Croucher. The event kicked off a four-day Grange session that included contests, speakers, entertainment, and consideration of proposals for inclusion in next year's legislative agenda.

In his remarks, Lincoln, said the Grange and the 26,000-member Farm Bureau need to work together if agriculture is to experience growth and profitability .

"The challenge is to work together, getting the message out on agriculture," Lincoln said, adding that one challenge to agriculture, that of creating a "friendly business climate," has been at least partially met with recent passage of legislation providing property tax relief for farmers. Workman's compensation rates have also been lowered.

"It's been a banner year for agriculture," Lincoln said, crediting Gov. George Pataki for having an understanding about agriculture that his predecessor, Mario Cuomo, did not.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Sustainable agriculture. When you hear this term, what do you think of?

Organic farming? "Conventional" agriculture? Something in between?

The dictionary definition of sustain is "to keep in existence; maintain." Based on this definition, any farmer in the U.S. will be practicing sustainable agriculture if they want to stay in business.

However, as I perceive the general perception to the term "sustainable agriculture," it seems that most people would describe some system of organic farming. This idea is most likely rooted in the environmental movement that started in recent years and used the terms sustainable and organic interchangeably, particularly when referring to farming operations.

The Federal Government defined sustainable agriculture in the 1990 Farm Bill as "an integrated system of plant and animal production practices having site-specific application that will, over the long term, satisfy human food and fiber needs; enhance environmental quality and the natural resources base upon which the agricultural economy depends; make the most efficient use of non-renewable resources and on-farm/ranch resources; and integrate, where appropriate, natural biological cycles and controls; sustain the economic viability of farm/ranch operations; and enhance the quality of life for farmers/ranchers and society as a whole." Based on this definition, it is easy to see why there is such a wide perception of exactly what sustainable agriculture is.

The main thrust of a sustainable agricultural program is examination of the production system as a whole rather than looking at the individual pieces. But what exactly does this mean?

Suppose you apply a fertilizer to your fruit or vegetable crop. You then evaluate the effectiveness of the fertilizer during harvest either through produce quality or the amount of produce harvested. But using a systems approach you would also consider the impact of the fertilizer on the environment.

Was there any runoff during later rainfalls? Did any of the fertilizer reach the groundwater supply? Obviously, evaluation of some of the many potential impacts of our farming practices are not easily achieved.

Am I saying that fruit and vegetable growers need to start monitoring water runoff and groundwater for fertilizers? Hardly. My main point here is to both define what is meant by sustainable agriculture and to have you start thinking about your farming practices beyond the immediately visible results. You will probably be seeing more references to sustainable agriculture in the future as researchers and society continue to examine how farming impacts the environment, society, and the economy.

I'm certain many of you have already adopted practices that fit the definition of sustainable agriculture. Some changes, such as the reduction in pesticide inputs, may have been forced upon you by the loss of registrations for some chemicals. Additional chemicals will probably lose registrations in the future. However, newer chemicals are generally targeted toward a specific pest or group of pests and thus have the reduced environmental impacts desired in a sustainable agriculture system.

Many of the current Integrated Pest Management (IPM) programs involve timing chemical applications to pests at certain population levels. This results in fewer pesticide applications and a potential reduction in environmental impacts. However, fewer spray applications also means a reduction in production costs. This could result in more profit to you, the farmer. So both the farmer and the environment will benefit in this system.

IPM is an excellent example of a practice in a sustainable agricultural system. The use of disease-resistant varieties is another. If you use either of these practices, you are using parts of a sustainable agricultural system.

As I wrote earlier, I expect that many Lancaster County farmers are already using one or more practices that fit the definition of sustainable agriculture. And as long as new sustainable production practices are financially beneficial to the farmer, they will continue to be adopted quickly.

ADC Meeting In Lancaster

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative is gearing up for its 1996 annual meeting, which will be held Nov. 21-22 at the Holiday Inn/Lancaster Host Resort in Lancaster, Pa.

The theme of the 79th annual meeting, "Platform for Progress," reflects Atlantic's commitment to providing progressive programs and services to dairy farmers. The cooperative's platform revolves around its goal of maximizing overall returns to members.

During the 1996 fiscal year, Atlantic marketed a total of 4.55 billion pounds of milk, of which 3.82 billion pounds was produced by the cooperative's members. The net margin stood at $5.8 million, the equivalent of 15 cents per hundredweight.

The annual meeting will begin on Thursday, Nov. 21, at 9:45 a.m. with reports by Atlantic's officers and staff. At this time, a complete financial report will be presented by Michael A. John, chief financial officer.

Robert M. Dever, chief executive officer, will present his report during the afternoon session, which begins at 1:20 p.m. Following Dever's report, Thomas M. Suber, senior vice president of the U.S. Dairy Export Council, will provide an update on his organization's work in securing overseas markets for U.S. dairy products.

The annual banquet will begin Thursday night at 6:15 p.m. in the Showroom. William Perry, vice president of governmental affairs and member relations for Milk Marketing Inc., will serve as master of ceremonies. The guest speaker will be Jeanne Robertson, a former basketball coach turned motivational speaker.

The program on Friday will include presentations by Jane Brosius, farm partner and wife of Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, and Dorothy Stambaugh and Kim Jureckson on "Home Decorating on a Budget."

For further information about the meeting and/or a registration form, please contact Jean Palumbo, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, at (215) 322-0200.

Agriculture Department Offers Grants To Youth Organizations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rural youth organizations may apply for state grants of up to $2,500 to fund their educational projects and activities, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced. Deadline for applications is Dec. 5.

"Our youth are the future of agriculture and we are pleased to offer these grants under the Agricultural and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program," Brosius said. "The grants help these organizations expand activities that increase knowledge and awareness of issues specific to rural areas."

A total of $50,000 is available for the grant program, which is funded by proceeds from a trust fund through the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Since 1992, five previous rounds of funding have been distributed.

Grants can be used by organizations such as 4-H and FFA to fund educational projects, programs, seminars or field trips designed to increase awareness of agricultural and rural issues. Applications must be postmarked by Dec. 5 to be considered.

Recipients will be selected by the 13-member Agriculture and Rural Youth Grant Board, which includes representatives from the Agriculture Department, Education Department, Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association, the Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension, 4-H, FFA, Pennsylvania State Grange, and the General Assembly.

Treasury Of Heritage: 211 Years At Clover Hill Farms

A very tiny milk house still exists from days of yore at Leon and Dorothy Jane Paul's 211-year-old farm near Garrett in Somerset County. David, center, and his family live on the second farm visible in the distance. He and his parents have a partnership and his children are the ninth Walker generation on the land.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

GARRETT (Somerset Co.) — Family ties to a portion of God's good earth, no matter how small the plot, often are a source of hope and pride for those who grow up in the place where they were born.

Having strong roots, as most folks realize, solidifies us in our journey through the ups and downs of life.

Leon and Dorothy Jane (Walker) Paul have pride in roots that, as it is fostered in their children and grandchildren, probably surpasses that of families with a shorter record.

This one goes back at least 211 years, and possibly longer, when Jacob Walker, Dorothy Jane's great-great-great-great-grandfather, in 1785 purchased the 167 acres of the original farm, now dubbed Clover Hill Farms.

"The farm was never out of the 'Walker' name, until it was deeded to us in 1982," said Dorothy Jane, the direct Walker descendant, since her father, Walter T. Walker, died on December 26, 1985, and her only brother, George S. Walker, died at age eight.

Her active, 86-year-old mother, Mary (Stahl) Walker, not only retains a longtime membership in the Hillcrest Grange, but she delights in the latest Walker offshoots sprouting up in Leon and Dorothy Jane's grandkids who live nearby. These compose the ninth Walker generation to live there.

Progress at Clover Hill Farms is obvious in how Leon and David, their business partner and son, run things, maintaining what has evolved through the Walker progenitors, as a tradition, according to the mother and daughter.

"They were always willing to move ahead with progress," said Dorothy Jane. "My dad had the first pipeline (milking) system in the county."

For Leon, farming had been in his blood since his dad, Clarence E. Paul, ran a dairy operation about a mile distant from the Walker place.

After their wedding on June 21, 1963, Leon and Dorothy Jane, in 1967, put a house trailer beside the enduring old 1838 farm house, and Leon began working with his father-in-law who was set on going into semi-retirement.

Eventually, a new house replaced the trailer to make room for the three Paul children — David W., Lisa J. and Amy Sue.

Married to Patricia, David's and her children are Justin, Melissa and Kristin. Lisa married Brad Brown. Their daughter is Megan. Amy, a recent Somerset County dairy princess, is unmarried, but attends school and has a job.

Although it was updated and overhauled, Leon stuck with the barn's overhead pipeline system to send the milk quickly into the frosty, stainless bulk tank in the milkhouse.

He also realized that the work load would be greatly eased by erecting good silos.

"We put silos up to make our work easier," he said. So in 1970, down came the old tile silo to make way for a more modern successor where corn silage could be stored.

Haylage got a silo in 1979 and then, last year, up went a big blue Harvestore, a depository for high moisture corn.

At about 65 head of Holsteins is where the partners keep the herd size, with some 80 head of replacement animals.

While the guys feed, Dorothy Jane, who clearly recalls that none but International Farmall tractors were allowed by her late father, does evening milking and helps, as well at the 5 a.m. hour.

"My dad was an International Farmall man," she said, laughing. "You didn't speak any other color but 'red.'"

Nodding toward Leon's favorite hobby — the 1949 shiney John Deere tractor first bought by his grandfather — she adds, "The first (green) John Deere tractor came on the farm in 1993."

What began more as a precautionary measure for safety is now the norm — keeping the cows inside instead of letting them graze, Leon said.

"There was a time when we had to move our cattle on the state road," he explained. "Now we have to let them loose and put them in a pen for exercise. There's no grazing."

The land size, including the farm located just around the bend that David and his family live on, is 377 acres.

It happened when the execution of his late brother's will found Walter inheriting Dalton's 210 acres next door.

Alfalfa mixed hay is sown on 160 acres; corn on 130; oats on 50 acres, and 30 are reserved for needed barley.

It's a far cry from the days of raising potatoes, pigs and chickens. When most folks did their own butchering and a smokehouse and a summerhouse were standard outbuildings, as Mary well remembers. They also owned a steam engine, she said.

And threshing days, when men joined forces to help each other while the women joined forces to feed 'em.

Occasionally, as when "Aunt Nettie got the salt instead of the sugar," the hungry men were shocked to find the tasty looking food wasn't so good after all. The joke was better.

Two hundred plus years of life lived in one place by the descendents of one family is a powerful legacy, with Walker stories to pass through succeeding generations.

Jacob Walker, for instance, was well intentioned as he and his horse flew down a bridle path, racing against others who, if they won, could choose the first plot in a planned town. About a year later, it was named Berlin.

The path, at one point, went on either side around a certain tree. Jacob, thinking that he understood his steed, leaned in the appropriate direction. The horse, however, suddenly and unexpectedly, swerved to the opposite side and Jacob collided with the massive trunk. Sustaining traumatic injuries, the patriarch died soon thereafter.

Jacob had also been a second Lieutenant in the Revolutionary War. His father, Francis Walker, in 1732, had sailed into Baltimore, according to records

Two generations later, in the same general area, a second tragedy occurred.

This time George P.H. Walker, Jacob's grandson, died at the hand of a stranger, one who apparently, had needed work and was hired to help scythe down the grass.

George, because a toothache was troubling him, didn't feel good that day. So when he saw the Irishman's sloppy work, he let fly with some sharp words for this Mr. Burns.

Unable to accept the deserved criticism, Burns made a remark about curing Walker's toothache and instantly turned on him, slashing him with the scythe.

In the excitement that followed, Burns escaped. Undetected, he later managed to return for his wife, but according to historical records, he was never apprehended. He did not, therefore, pay the penalty for his heinous deed.

Still another time, when the family returned home from the funeral of Freeman Walker's wife, they found that Freeman, himself,

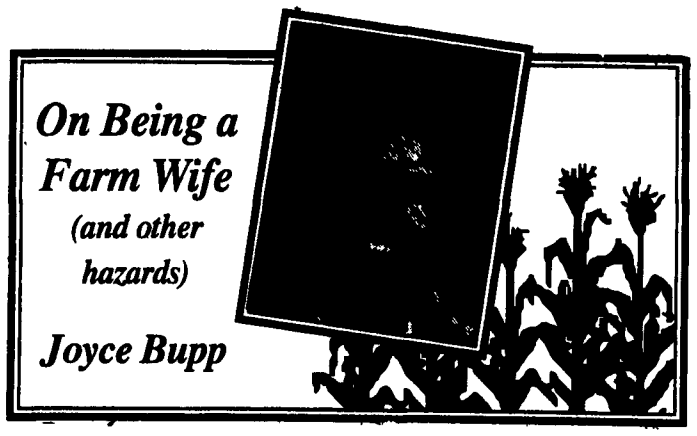
HOMESTEAD NOTES



No. Sorry.

I just don't wanna' give it up.

Yes, it's true. The early morning TV new's weatherman had hinted — in warning tones — about the "S" word. He never actually came out and said ... sss ... sn ... ssnn ... sno ...

See. I can't even bring myself to say it.

There is still too much corn standing in fields. Too much last-cutting hay to be tucked into silos and bales. Probably some fields that farmers would like to plant to fall-seeded grain, weather permitting. And goodness knows how many acres of soybeans continue slowly sinking to the ground while waiting for the combines to get to them.

It's a blessing of a harvest — for farmers and consumers both — if we can just get it all under roof. If Mother Nature just holds off on that sss ... sn ... ssnn ... sno ...

Sorry. It's a mental hangup.

So, like everyone else, I have my own way of coping with it. Some people wax their skis. Some folks oil and tune-up their snowmobiles. Some of you really intimidate the rest of us by about having your snowplows on and ready to go. Imagine.

Hey, I prefer to cope by getting down and dirty.

Hands and knees style. Crawling around the yard. Rummaging for more of that last-ditch stuff to crowd into the greenhouse and onto windowsills. Anything to hang onto the growing season.

Sweeping the patio clear of crunchy leaves — and into a pile where the dog loves to curl up in them — turns up a bunch of volunteer impatiens seedlings in the cracks between the patio blocks. Impatiens are a personal favorite, one of the few plants to cheerfully grow bright blooms under the dense shade of our old maple trees.

So the dozen or so seedlings are potted, watered, and join another two dozen larger pots of impatiens happily blooming under glass. Never mind that nearly every year we get at least one extreme cold spell that causes them to go belly-up. Every year I vow not to bother, and every fall I turn around and bring in even more than the previous year.

Like I said. I don't wanna give it up.

Two wax begonias growing in one of the nearby perennial beds get a reprieve from the warnings about ssss ... sn ... ssnn ... sno ... sorry. Their roots are tugged from the ground, the (frost-nipped) tops trimmed back and the plants plunked into pots. And I'm not even that fond of wax begonias, for goodness' sake.

Still, anything that will still be green and blooming come February, even halfheartedly, deserves a chance. A wild violet plant growing up next to the concrete edge of the basement porch looks as though it has a bloom bud on it. Maybe it would like to come inside. And the bulbs that came in a birthday package went, not outside into the ground, but into pots for coaxing into late winter bloom.

And then, a couple of snapdragons rejuvenated in the border and might bloom if potted inside and coaxed. Likewise some geraniums that I thought had long ago given up. All they need is a chance and protection from that sss ... sn ... sssnnn ... sno ... oh, wait, I think it's coming.

Snow. Snow. There. I've said it.

Come to think about it, I like snow. Maybe I will go wax my skis. But I flat-out refuse to dig up that dandelion blooming in the backyard and bring it inside.

Even we fanatics have our limits.

Clover Hill Farms

had died while they were gone.

Freeman was Dorothy Jane's grandfather and Mary's father-in-law.

Phillip Walker, the second owner, was father to George P.H., then came Josiah Walker the fourth owner; Freeman, Walter T., then the Pauls.

The bicentennial birthday of Clover Hill Farms was on January 11, 1988, officially recognized at the state farm show Harrisburg.

Walker, in a self-written, brief history found in "The Berlin Area 1777-1977" wrote that PennDOT, by way of condemnation, took 40 acres of the farm on November 25, 1975 for a future four-lane Route 219.

The road is still waiting to be built, but like her late father's opinion, the prospect is very unappealing to the Pauls. Not only is some of the original land in the designated 40 acres, but it's certain the peace and quiet they've always taken for granted would be lost, as well.

And after being shelved for almost a score of years, the issue of a four-lane Route 219, primarily because of its potential as a north/south, North American tradway, is boiling at a hotter temperature now than at any time since the 1970s.

Politicians, industrialists, tourism promoters and many agriculturalists, see the expressway as a biggy blown open by the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), to neighboring Canada.

Measuring 120 feet in length and evidently built in 1820, the well-preserved barn receives its structural support from two massive, 60-foot, logs that were placed end to end by the old timers who built it.

In 1972 space was created for a second row of stanchions by closing in the barn's old foreshoot that resembled so many others of the day.

Its 13-opening hex sign was apparently designed by Josiah C. Werner, whose works are detailed in "The Country Carpenter," published in 1991 by the Gateway Press in Baltimore. With other barns in Pennsylvania that have a hex sign, the book's picture illustrations include the Walker barn.

Community minded, especially about agriculture, the Pauls, who in 1994 received the conservation district's Award of Merit, make soil management on their Dairy of Distinction Farm, a habit.

"We always try to practice soil conservation," says Leon. "We do soil testing, use fertilizer and rotate our crops."

They are doubly conscious of land stewardship knowing that the Swamp Creek, which flows into the Casselman River at Garrett, originates on their land.

An Agway committeeman, Leon is also a Milk Marketing Inc. delegate, vice-president of the Berlin Fair Asso.; overseer of the Pomona Grange; long time member of the Hillcrest and state Granges; state and county Holstein associations; state and Berlin Young Farmers Asso.; Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, church elder at Hays Mt. Zion United Church of Christ and secretary of the Consistory.

Dorothy Jane, like her grandparents, belongs to the Hillcrest Grange where Freeman and Minerva were charter members some 80 years ago.

A member of the First Society of Farm Women, she also teaches Sunday School at the Mt. Zion UCC.

Childhood Pressures

Kids rubbing their fingerprints off their fingers because they failed to "make" the gifted program, children in tears after being cut from the hockey team, youngsters bed wetting or biting the new baby. Is this a picture of childhood happiness?.

What about parents who hire special tutors when their sons or daughters are already achieving average academic scores, or parents that verbally attack one another at sporting events? What pressures are adults putting on children unecessarily?

Child experts are observing an increased level of stress and tension in children. Stressed children may revert to less mature behaviors. They may be hostile toward people who wish to comfort them. Their sleeping, eating, and toilet patterns may change. They may forcefully intrude on others' play, or they may withdraw from gatherings or groups.

Do a quick self-check. Do I contribute to my child's stress? Does my message discount my child's feelings? Do I say things like, "You're acting like a baby about this" or, "It's not worth crying about"? Do I keep correcting my child's work until it is "perfect" in an attempt to help them succeed? Or, can I honestly say, "I love my child just the way he/she is"? Do I tell her and show my love and acceptance on a regular basis?

Researchers and family life educators have many suggestions for adults about helping children deal with stress. A few that you may want to consider are:

Be available to talk and listen to the child. Being available and noticing a child's stress is more important than making the stress go away. I like the phrase, "Sit silently with a child who sits alone." The balance in the conversation should always be with the adult listening more than talking. Encourage the child to put his anger or sadness into words. Avoid using phrases like, "Oh, that's not so bad. You'll have another chance." Say instead, "Oh, you must feel very sad. I know you were excited about ..."

Provide private, safe space for the child. Sometimes kids don't want to talk. Make sure every person has some safe, cozy place to escape to — a place all her own. This may be a stack of pillows in the corner, a hide-out in the den, a desk, or even a bedroom. Respect the alone time that the child needs. Keep home routines predictable and supportive.

Regularly use spoken and non-verbal messages to boost a child's self-esteem. Try saying the following statements to your children: "I love you even when we disagree." "You can find a way of doing things that works for you." "My love is always with you. I trust you to ask for my support." "All your feelings are okay with me." Describe very clearly what you like about your child or his accomplishments. For example, "The rock collection that you put together is really organized. You spent a lot of time making it that way."

Use humor to defuse tension and reframe thinking about a negative situation. Fill your home with laughter. Allow tears and anger. Let those feelings come out, but after they do, fill up the space with fun and silliness. Laugh at your own mistakes. Laugh at life. Laugh with each other.

Encourage daily active play or exercise outdoors. Being in the fresh air and working out physical adrenaline can enhance a person's mood, vent some frustration, and provide uninterrupted thinking time. Swimming is a great, soothing sport. Taking a shower or bath can also be quite therapeutic for people of all ages.

Encourage self-expression. Make sure you have lots of paints, clays, art materials, paper, and journals. When your child doesn't want to talk, these are great ways for them to express their feelings. Even mixing cookie dough or kneading bread can be a good outlet.

Allow, even welcome, mistakes. The less a child thinks he has to be perfect and the more a child is encouraged to experiment and try again, the better she will be in the long run. Dr. Christine Todd, family life expert, recalls that Mr. Goodyear tried to make rubber hundreds of times before succeeding. If he hadn't persevered, we'd still be riding on metal wheels.

She also cites research that says children who are good in math are also children who make mistakes. Fortunately, they aren't sidetracked by the mistakes. Rather they keep looking for solutions to the problem at hand.

Do you keep enough materials on hand (or allow enough time) so that if a mistake is made, a child can try again? Around eight or nine years of age children become acutely aware of their shortcomings. Practice by saying things like, "Oh well, it didn't turn out. I know you're disappointed. You're welcome to try again sometime."

Seek out activities at home, school, and in the community that rely on cooperation. Many times a child's stress comes from "coming up short" in competitive situations. Look for situations that thrive on teamwork and where everyone has a chance to contribute and succeed.

Demonstrate positive coping skills and self-control as you deal with your own disappointments. Your own examples and sharing how you dealt with rejection or stresses may be the best solution. Laugh at your own mistakes. Cry when you're sad. Ask for a hug. Let your children see you trying again, apologizing, and going to "Plan B" when "Plan A" falls through.

Home And Garden Invaders: Gypsy Moth, Boxelder Bugs, And Hornets

Our approaching winter means one last look around the yard and home. The buff-colored, inch-and-a-half long fuzzy egg clusters of gypsy moths are in view on bare trees. Each cluster contains several hundred eggs which means several hundred caterpillars. Many are on undersides of tree branches, along trunks, or in protected areas.

The trees that gypsy moths like best include apple trees, speckled alder, basswood, gray and river birch, hawthorne, oak, poplar, and willow. They also like black, yellow and paper birch, cherry, chestnut, elm, black gum, hickory, hornbeam, larch, maple, and sassafras.

Once you find the egg masses, scrape them off with a sharp knife or a flat wooden stick. If you scrape the eggs, collect and drop them into a can and destroy. Merely scraping the eggs off will do no good since the eggs can still hatch on the ground.

Destroying some of the gypsy moth egg clusters will be of some help in cutting down on the invasion of the destructive moths next April or May.

Boxelder Bugs are still congregating on buildings, fences, telephone boxes, and electrical transformers. As winter approaches they move inside to seek shelter from the cold. During warm spells, boxelder bugs may move from hiding places into our living spaces. South facing, light-covered building walls facing open spaces like a yard or open field are especially desirable gathering spots.

Boxelder bugs are ½ inch flat, oval-shaped true bugs. They are black with narrow red markings. The nymphs are bright red and lack wings. Both life stages feed on boxelder and other seed-bearing trees like maple, ash, apple and cherry. The larvae are seldom noticed on host trees. It is primarily the adult stage and some larger nymphs that aggregate on buildings. Host trees may be up to two miles away from their winter gatherings. Control on hosts now is not useful and probably is not ever helpful. Soap or a residual outdoor insecticide sprayed around windows and doors, prevent some boxelder bugs occupying a building.

Hornets. Now that the leaves have fallen, it is easier to see the paper nests of bald-faced hornets in trees and shrubs. As long as temperatures remain mild, hornets, yellow jackets, and ants are seen near garages, over-ripe fruit and honeydew droppings from aphids. Most are searching for their last meal.

The bald-faced hornet is a black wasp about an inch long with cream colored markings on the head and abdomen. The young are reared in football-shaped nest. The nest consists of layers of paper cells similar to those made by paper wasps but wrapped in a layered paper cover. It has a single opening at the bottom which is guarded even at night. They are quite protective of the nest and will sting if the nest is approached.

When necessary, a wasp and hornet aerosal can be sprayed into the nest opening late in the evening. Beware of the guard hornets. If possible, the colony should be left while cold weather kills off the workers. Mated females overwinter under tree bark and start brand new nests in the spring. Nests which are not reused by the hornets are often collected for curiosity and study. They should be aired out and completely dried before bringing indoors.

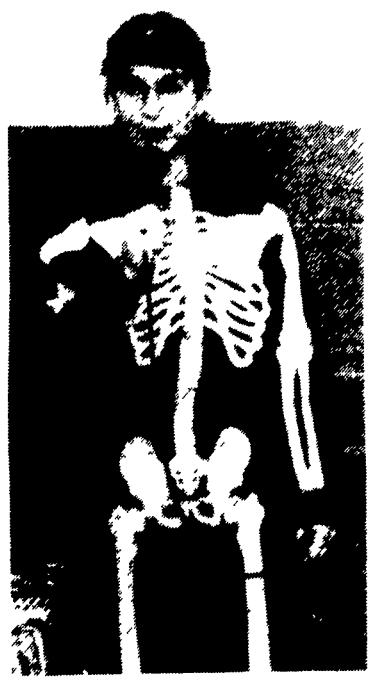
Lycoming County Extension Hands Out Awards



Lycoming Dairy Princess Angela Lovell presented a skit on the values of milk and dairy products to everyone, young or old.

Hannah Fenstermaker (center), Lairdsville, receives the 1996 Helen Fry Memorial Extension Award from David Albert (right), president of the Lycoming County Extension Board, at the annual dinner meeting held recently at the Warrensville Fire Hall. Terry Fenstermaker (left), Hannah's son holds the centerpiece presented to Hannah, also. Hannah dedicated more than 35 years to teaching various cooking and sewing skills to 4-H members. Meeting in different homes, young 4-H'ers learned more than the basics; they had cook-outs and even a taffy pull, which was recalled as, "Lots of fun!" Hannah participated in many Family Living county-wide meetings, special activities and events, expanding and sharing her expertise. Hannah was an Expanded Food and Nutrition Aide, teaching homemakers and families the proper preparation of foods and adequate nutrition for their families. She also serves as secretary of the Lycoming County Farmers' Union.

Jacob Guffey (third from left), interim assistant to the regional director presented awards to the following: Doris Sargent (left), Lycoming County Family Living Agent received the New Professional's Awards from the National Extension Association of Family and Consumer Sciences for developing a state-wide immunization calendar that will be presented to all mothers at the time of delivery in Pennsylvania hospitals. Doris Sanso (second from left), Lycoming County Extension office manager receives the Penn State 10-year service award for her untiring efforts to serve the public in Lycoming County. Tom Murphy (right), receives the Penn State 10-year service award for his work in agronomy, horticulture, marketing, and 4-H.

Breakfast Ideas To Jump-Start Your Day

Experts tell us that breakfast is a very important meal for adults as well as children. Youngsters who eat breakfast are more alert and perform better on achievement tests. Adults who eat breakfast also are able to perform better and have improved mid-morning strength and endurance.

In addition, for those who are diet conscious, research shows that eating breakfast helps a person maintain or lose weight, according to a recent study by the Center for Clinical and Lifestyle Research and Wellsource, Inc.

However, with all the hustle and bustle of getting off to school and work on time, many people find it very difficult to eat a nutritious breakfast.

The following are a few quick and easy ideas to help you make sure you jump-start your day:

*whole grain toaster waffles/ pancakes

*whole grain breads/bagels with peanut butter

*low-fat yogurt

*low-fat cottage cheese with fresh or canned fruit

*breakfast shake (blend low-fat milk with fruit and ice)

*low-fat granola bars with boxed juice or milk

*leftover pizza, tacos, spaghetti or chicken (Remember: anything goes!)

Follwing are some recipes that could be included in a healthy breakfast.

ZESTY MOZZARELLA CHICKEN

1 egg white, lightly beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
¼ teaspoon each — salt, pepper, garlic powder, cayenne pepper, and dried oregano
8 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
¼ cup butter
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon dried basil
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

In a shallow bowl, combine egg white and milk. In another bowl, combine the bread crumbs, parmesan cheese, and seasonings. Dip each chicken breast in the egg white mixture, then in the crumb mixture. Melt butter in a skillet; brown chicken on both sides until no longer pink and juices run clear. Meanwhile, heat tomato sauce and basil until warm. When chicken is done, sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Remove from the heat and cover for 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese melts. Serve with tomato basil sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Abraham Lincoln Lives In Gettysburg

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — James Getty, who looks a lot like the 16th president of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, lives in Gettysburg.

Mr. Getty has always been fascinated with Abe Lincoln and, when a friend suggested that he could do impersonations, he decided to give it a try.

Today, Mr. Getty impersonates Abe in a theater at Gettysburg as well as in schools and Civil War-related programs around the country.

Children who meet Mr. Getty are always impressed with his ability to think, stand, move, and talk exactly as we have always pictured Mr. Lincoln.

Is this the real Abe Lincoln?

He speaks as though it was still 1862 and the Civil War was raging throughout the land.

Ask him about his mother, Nancy, his sister, Sarah, or his father or stepmother, and he will give an honest answer.

He remembers playing in the creek in Kentucky and seeing slaves passing by in chains. "It was at that time that I decided slavery was wrong," he says.

Mr. Lincoln speaks of his great love for books as a young man and tells humorous stories of the "blabb school," he attended in Kentucky.

When someone reveals where his home town is located, Mr. Lincoln can immediately relate the part that area of the country played in the Civil War.

He ends each of his presentations by reciting the Gettysburg Address which was first given at Gettysburg on November 19, 1863. That was a cold, late autumn day and Mr. Lincoln was invited to speak along with the great professional speaker, Edward Everett.

Mr. Everett spoke for two and ½ hours. Imagine going to church and listening to the minister speak for that long.

Then, it was Mr. Lincoln's turn and his speech took only a few minutes.

It was several years before the American people realized just how important the words uttered in those few minutes were or how well they had been written and delivered.

Mr. Lincoln was wrong on one account. "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here," he said in his speech. Today, the Gettysburg Address is an important part of almost every American history class.

Presenting this realistic portrayal of Mr. Lincoln did not come easily. "I studied and read every book I could find on "Honest Abe," smiles Mr. Getty.

He visited the place where Lincoln was born, the rural area in Kentucky where he grew up, the farmland in Indiana where the Lincolns next lived, and the small town in Illinois where Lincoln tried his hand at being a businessman.

When he tells people in each of the areas he visits what he is doing, they are happy to take him to locations or graves where friends or families of Lincoln lived or are buried.

By visiting these sites, Mr. Getty says he gets a real feel for how Mr. Lincoln must have reacted to each of these individuals who played an important role in his life.

"My favorite presentations are always given to school children," says Mr. Getty. "I love helping them to see what a magnificent person President Lincoln really was."

"Without him, this country might have taken an entirely different course and it might not be the great country it is today.

Your school could contact Mr. Getty about doing a Lincoln performance by calling him at the Conflict Theater in Gettysburg, at (717) 334-6049.

James Getty poses as Mr. Lincoln during a ceremony held recently in Bedford.

Mr. Getty studied every book written about Pres. Lincoln in order to give a true representation of Lincoln's mannerisms.

Where do butterflies spend winter?
Geese aren't the only winged critters that head south when the weather gets cold. Monarch butterflies fly more than 1,800 miles to spend the winter in warm, sunny Mexico.
Our entomology friends think shorter days and cooler temperatures put the distinct orange-and-black flying insects in the mood to migrate. About mid-August, monarchs will shut down their reproductive systems — monarchs typically lay eggs all summer — and rest at night in big groups, called roosts. And they move south during the day.
Most monarchs arrive at their central Mexico mountain roosts by early December. Once there, they hang out on branches and tree trunks and rarely move. (Though they might go hunt for sweet nectar on warm days.)
When it warms up in February, monarchs begin moving north. Females lay eggs on milkweeds along their route north. Most returning females die along the way. Their young continue the journey north, mating and laying eggs as they move.
Around the end of May, the monarchs will have reached their summer homes, some as far north as central Canada. Then, the travels start all over again in the fall.
But remember — migrating monarchs are at least three generations removed from the ones that flew to Mexico last year. They return to the same roost site without ever being there or having an elder show them the way.
And this has entomologists really stumped — they don't know how the monarchs do it!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

Discipline: A Matter of Self-Control

When it comes to discipline, there are no magical answers for parents as to how, when, and why. Expert opinions vary on techniques of disciplining because no two families are alike.

How parents discipline range from telling a child not to do something to some type of corporal punishment. The timing of discipline may range from the moment inappropriate behavior took place to hours or even days later. The why to discipline can also vary. Some parents can't seem to find anything wrong with their child's behavior, while others parents can't seem to find anything right about it.

The point of disciplining is to help children learn what is or is not acceptable behavior. Children can learn to control their own behavior with positive disciplining and reinforcement for good behavior.

One approach, to helping a young child reach self-control by stating what you want from the child or by repeating an established family rule. Be specific! For example, you might have a rule that "all toys are picked up after playing." You know when you want it done; however, the child may not have the same time frame in mind. He or she may not be done playing until just before bed time.

This approach is simple: state what you want, when you want it done and if necessary what will happen if it isn't done. You might say, "I want you to pick up these toys before any more are taken out of the box. If you take any more out, all the toys will be put away." Don't forget that younger children may need to be reminded. They can only recall so much information at one time. If you made the request ten minutes ago, chances are good they have already forgotten. No matter what age the child may be, follow through with any stated consequences.

If your child continues to break a specific rule, you need to ask yourself a series of questions: "Am I clear about what I want to happen? Does my child know the consequences?" and "Have I followed through on the consequences?" Chances are you need a clearer line of communication with your child. This is true whether your child is three or seventeen.

The "follow-through" needs to be immediate. You need to be calm and in control of yourself, especially if you are angry. Don't put it off until the other parent or adult comes home. Don't leave the responsibility of discipline to the other partner. Remember also that if you delay the punishment, a young child will often forget what happened and older children resent that one parent is too easy and the other too forceful.

Disciplining children is done every day. Children test the rules set by adults to find out just what can and can't be done. A positive discipline approach teaches a child self-control.

Additional information on positive discipline techniques can be found at your library, book store, county cooperative extension office, and parenting support groups.

MooKooler Sells More Milk

PITTSBURGH (Allegheny Co.) — Moo Kooler™ is making a difference in the dairy case with the help of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA).

According to recent date from the Nielsen Group, a marketing and research organization which is tracking the progress of Moo Kooler, sales from cash register scanned data shows that in Pittsburgh net consumption attributes the growth in flavored fluid milk consumption to the launch of Moo Kooler and its television advertising campaign.

To help achieve these results, the Moo Kooler advertising campaign air-time was increased in the Pittsburgh market during the 1996 test period with financial assistance from the PDA. Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Brosius presented a matching grant for $30,000 to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) in conjunction with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East (ADADC Mid East) to support the introduction and test market of Moo Kooler in Pittsburgh. The grant was made available through the Pennsylvania Agricultural Product Promotion Marketing Grant Program.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture should be commended for their support of the Moo Kooler project," says Brian Ross, Pennsylvania program manager for ADADC Mid East. "The beverage category is one of the most competitive in the food industry and the introduction of a new fluid milk product is a big challenge. However, by bringing resources together we can increase the dairy industry's success in the marketplace."

Moo Kooler is a line of 2%, flavored milk packaged in 12-ounce, recyclable plastic bottles with a twist-off lid. Designed to increase milk consumption among kids ages 6-12 years old, Moo Kooler is available in four flavors: ChocoBoom™ (chocolate fudge), ChocoKool™ (chocolate mint), OrangeSlide™ (orange vanilla) and VanillaZilla™ (vanilla). Pittsburgh was one of three initial test markets for Moo Kooler. Plans are being made to begin marketing and distributing Moo Kooler in additional Pennsylvania markets in 1997.

"The Moo Kooler project is an example of dairy farmer dolalrs and processor dollars working together to expand the fluid milk category and increase sales," says Karl Kroeck, PDPP Board chairman. "The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture recognized this joint effort as a positive step in commodity marketing and supported the program with additional dollars."

Moo Kooler is a trademarked product of ADADC Mid East, the farmer-funded organization that implements advertising, marketing, promotion and nutrition education programs on behalf of dairy farmers in 33 counties in western and north central Pennsylvania.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles C. Brosius presents a check for $30,000 to Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Board chairman Karl Kroeck for the marketing of Moo Kooler in Pittsburgh.

Lancaster Farmland Trust Marks 4,000 Acres Preserved

WILLOW VALLEY (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster Farmland Trust marked its eighth year with honoring seven more benefactors who have committed their individual farms for preservation.

In just eight years, the trust has preserved 60 farms totaling nearly 4,000 acres, Tom Stouffer, the trust's executive director, said at the annual meeting held Nov. 1 at Willow Valley's Palm Court.

More than 300 members and friends of the trust attended the dinner where awards were presented to those enabling the preservation of farmland and where funds were raised through a silent auction.

The seven families who have recently donated easements on their farms include Richard H. Witmer Foundation, 77 acres; Charles W. Shoff, 73 acres; C. Dale and Cynthia Bollinger, 30 acres East Drumore; Conrad Nelson, 72 acres; Tim Martin and Christine Janouschek, 35 acres Manheim Township; Levi Ober, 51 acres in West Donegal Township; and Robert and Donna Kreider, 41 acres in Drumore Township.

Distinguished service awards were presented to outgoing board members George C. Delp and Dorothy L. Lyet for their service on the board.

A special presentation by the Earl Township Farmland Preservation Trust was made when it donated $2,000 to the trust to continue its preservation efforts.

Youth awards were given to representatives from 4-H and from FFA, who also spoke on the importance of preserving agricultural land for future generations. These included Jimmy Mullen of Peach Bottom, Amy Becker of Manheim, and Richie Bollinger of Ephrata.

Daniel Sweigart received the Distinguished Donor Award, for his substantial monetary gift to the trust this past year.

Officers and board members elected at the meeting include Phyllis Whitesell, president; Stephen M. Kraybill, vice president, Dr. John Schwartz, secretary, and Paul Whipple, treasurer.

New board members elected to three-year terms are Lee Dmitzak, Lucinda hampton, Earl Horton, Rebecca Huyard, and Phil Kimmel.

Board members elected to one-year terms are Jay Clark, Jim Shirk, and Gini Wagner. Re-elected to a two-year term is John Saeger.

Lancaster Farmland Trust is a private, non-governmental organization actively working to preserve farmland in Lancaster County. It is committed to supporting farmers who are good stewards of the land to encourage the growth of the agriculture industry, recognizing that the farm heritage has enriched the lives of all citizens.

Insects Seek Indoor Shelter

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — The approach of winter signals hibernation for many insects, but unfortunately, not all insects hibernate outdoors. Two insects, the boxelder bug and the multicolored Asian lady beetle (ladybug) are commonly found entering homes as the weather cools.

The boxelder bug is an oval-shaped, ½ inch long insect with black and red-striped markings. As the name suggests, the insect is partial to boxelder trees, but it can be found feeding on ash, maple, apple or cherry trees. It does very little damage to the trees, but becomes a nuisance when it enters the house.

Multicolored Asian lady beetles are oval, convex, ¼ inch long red with black spots and are commonly called ladybugs. Lady beetles are usually found congregating in groups on rocks or logs where sunlight is present. These are beneficial insects which feed on other insects, especially harmful aphids!

Both of these insects hibernate in the fall. They seek a warm, sunny spot to hibernate, and many times this means the south side of your house. If there are cracks around the windows and doors, boxelder bugs or multicolored Asian lady beetles may enter your home in search of a warm, protected spot. Both are harmless, but can create a nuisance as they enter cupboards, clothes or furniture. When this occurs, the best thing to do is scoop up the lady beetles and send them back outside. Boxelder bugs can be either scooped or vacuumed up. Multicolored Asian lady beetles should not be vacuumed or destroyed as they are a beneficial insect.

Prevention is the best method of getting rid of these indoor pests. Cracks around windows, doors, siding, utility pipes, behind chimneys and underneath the wood fascia and other openings should be sealed with good quality silicone or silicone-latex caulk. Damaged screens on doors and windows should be repaired or replaced. Attics, fireplaces, chimneys, and exhaust vents should be covered with number 20 (or smaller) screen mesh.

If you would like more information on either the boxelder bug or the multicolored Asian lady beetle, contact the Montgomery County Cooperative Extension office at (610) 489-4315.

'Greatest Woman' Honored At Lancaster Farm Women Convention

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — When Dr. James Singer addressed the Society of Farm Women of Lancaster County, he promised to give an award to the greatest woman in the room.

About 240 women listened attentively as Singer extolled the virtues of the greatest woman who was to be revealed at the end of his speech given at the 79th annual convention held last Saturday at the Farm and Home Center.

Singer likened the woman to Christ, for standing up for what she believed when it wasn't easy. He said that "she wasn't all talk, that she walked the walk."

At the end of his speech, Singer instructed all the members to look into their cosmetic mirrors to see the greatest woman in the room.

"You are the only mother to your children, the only wife to your husband. No one can take your place as mother, wife, and grandmother to your grandchildren. There is only one you in all of history. You are the greatest woman in this room," he said. "I ask God to give each of you the award of his love."

Interspersing humor and anecdotes, Singer referred to his own mother who raised 10 children. He said that he was generally suspected of being the culprit whenever something went wrong.

"Next to God and her family, mother loved you best," Singer told the Farm Women members. His mother, Elsie Miller Singer, was a member of Society 5 before she passed away 10 years ago.

Kathryn Fry, president of the county organization, presented a check for $3,225 to the Lancaster County Hospice. The money was raised by the 28 county societies during the past year.

In addition, each society also contributes money locally to organizations and victims of misfortunes.

Allegra Leininger, vice president of the organization, recapped some of the societies' activities, such as talent night, travelogues,

Newly elected to the board of directors were Julia Zahn, secretary and Verna Hostetler, treasurer. Fry and Leininger will continue to carry out their three-year terms as president and vice president, respectively.

A special memorial service was held in honor of members who passed away during the year.

Other activities during the day-long convention included introductions by dairy ambassadors Katie Hess, Heather Brubaker, and Lara Welk.

As is its tradition, the Society honored members who are 90 years old with special Farm Women pins. Mary Nolt of Quarryville and Martha Herr of Strasburg were present to receive their pins.

Entertainment was provided by the Ministers of Music, a singing group.

Sheepberry Farms Accumulates Awards

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Sheepberry Farms, Halifax, exhibited a dozen of their sheep wool at the York Interstate Fair and the Keystone International Livestock Expo. John and Lynn Zerphey, owners of the sheep farm, were thrilled to receive a total of 24 ribbons from both fleece competitions. The Zerpheys were most proud that four of their Border Leicester rams placed in first and second place categories at both shows. The daughter of the farm's oldest Border Leicester ram, was awarded a first place ribbon and champion natural color fleece at the York Interstate Fair and a second place ribbon from Keystone International Livestock Expo.

In addition to the champion natural color award, Sheepberry Farms wool placed as follows: four first-place, seven second-place, five third-place, six fourth-place, and two fifth-place.

The wool shown at the two livestock events was produced from April 1995 and harvested or shown in April 1996 representing one year's growth. Wool is influenced by the sheep's environment and weather conditions, as well as general health and nutrition. The Zerpheys strive to maintian their sheep in good health and provide the cleanest possible surroundings for their sheep and the wool they produce.

With the very wet summer and fall, it has been a struggle to keep the sheep clean and dry. The barns are cleaned and fresh straw bedding applied more frequently than most summers and falls.

"Our wool is growing well and remains healthy," notes John Zerphey, "it just seems the sheep do not get a chance to dry completely before the next rains arrive."

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Most of the leaves are off of the trees but the mulberry trees still hold on to their leaves. And, there are still a few outside jobs as the ground is quite wet to dig all of my flower bulbs. The few frosts that we've had have not killed the dahlias nor the peanuts and so I put off digging them.

A week ago I picked a quart of red raspberries and noticed that there are a lot of green ones that won't have a chance to ripen. I've just picked a dozen quinces off of our small tree and cooked them. A grandson gave me some chestnuts that he picked up and we ate them too.

As we live near a development, the grandchildren look forward to trick or treat night. They dressed up as an Indian and as a cowboy. As a teenager I remember having a gypsy costume that I used for years. We lived near the village of Oregon and so there were many houses to visit. Some were glad to see us while others did not answer their doors. Those were the ones that got a lot of corn kernels on the porch. People did not buy candy, as they do now, but rather invited us in for cookies and apples. I do not think that we even took a bag along to collect candy.

My husband has finally completed the job of staining all the logs on our house again. He did it five years ago but the color has faded. His helping on the dairy farm every day keeps him busy and jobs at home have to wait. But now all of the potatoes have been dug — even the sweet potatoes.

One final trip to our camper was made to bring the boat home for the winter. Actually, he does hope to go to Snyder County for deer hunting. Years ago I went along and hunted too, but then there were more hunters than deer, and I decided to stay home. The seasons come and the seasons go, and we grow older all the time.

Make It Happen! FFA

Merkle To Perform With National FFA Band

When the lights are dimmed and a hush descends upon an audience of more than 35,000 at the world's largest annual youth convention this November, a local FFA member will share the spotlight in a musical performance that will inspire the crowd and provide memories to last a lifetime.

Jessica Merkle of Warrior's Mark has been selected to play clarinet in the 1996 National FFA Band. The more than 100-member marching and concert band will perform at various events throughout the organization's 69th National FFA Convention, Nov. 14-16 in Kansas City, Mo.

Merkle is a member of the State College Little Lions FFA chapter. She is the daughter of Charles and Delores Merkle.

FFA band members are nominated by their state associations and selected from more than 300 applications. The young musicians will arrive in Kansas City three days before the convention to rehearse.

The National FFA Band is directed by Gene Englerth, director of the Michigan State FFA Band and former assistant director of the National FFA Band.

There are approximately 150 total band members from all around the U.S.

For more information, contact Aimee Jo Hauck, State FFA reporter and past national band member, (717) 458-0337.

Local Youth Named National Finalist For FFA Award

Jeremy Dorman of Mifflinburg and a member of the Mifflinburg FFA chapter has been named a national finalist in competition for the National FFA Fruit and/or Vegetable Production Proficiency Award.

Dorman is now eligible to compete for national honors at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 14-16.

Forman became eligible for the national honor after winning the $100 state level aard. Proficiency awards recognize outstanding individual programs in which students start a business, work for an existing enterprise or otherwise gain hands-on career experience in agriculture. Fruit and/or vegetable production is one of 40 proficiency categories FFA uses for local, state and national evaluation and award programs. Dorman will receive a plaque and a check for $250.

Dorman is the son of Richard and Esther Dorman.

Yitzhak Rabin's son, Yuval, and Anwar Sadat's widow, Jehan Sadat accepted the awards.

Additional highlights included a panel presentation on "The Midle East: Building the Road to Peace" featuring Gregory Berry, deputy director, Office of Isreali/Arab Israeli Affairs, U.S. State Department; Hagar Islambouly, Consul General for Egypt in San Francisco; and Uriel Palti, Deputy Consul General for Israel in Los Angeles. Other noted participants included Olympic hero Rafer Johnson, who was one of PTPI's earliest staff members; Mary Eisenhower Atwater, Ike's granddaughter; and Sergei Krushchev and Sergo Mikoyan, sons of the former Soviet Union leaders.

SURFING THE 'NET' — INFORMATION AVAILABLE ON THE WORLD WIDE WEB

The beautiful thing about learning is nobody can take it away from you.

— B. B. King

People often ask, "Where did you hear about that?" or "How did you find out about such-and-such?"

More often than not, people are just as curious about the source of good information as they are curious about the message itself.

The "gossip tree" or "grapevine" is a tremendous source of information, but it doesn't compare with the amount and quality of information available on the World Wide Web (WWW).

The WWW has provided us with a unique opportunity to examine a multitude of sources of information without ever leaving our homes or offices.

Finding a place to start can be as difficult as finding a particular page on the WWW. Most people start at home. Some of us have multiple homes. For those of us in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State University, home can be any one of three pages.

• Penn State University
http://www.cac.psu.edu/
The Penn State University home page provides the following information: About Penn State; Academics and Research; Admissions and Student Services; Calendars; Colleges, Schools and Campuses; Computing; Development and Alumni Relations; Diversity; Faculty and Staff Services; Gopher; Libraries, Museums and The Arts; News and Intercom; Organizations and Activities; Search; Sports; and Weather.

• Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences
http://www.cas.psu.edu/
The College's home page features our slogan, "PennState Ag Sciences . . . We're more than you think!", as well as information on College Overview; College Administration; Extension and Research; Conferences and Short Courses; Career Outlooks In Agricultural Sciences; Agricultural Programs for Young People; AG-Related Directory of Web Services; Coaly's Corner; College Museums and Sites of Interest; College of Agricultural Sciences Information Servers; Professional Organizations; Other Agricultural Servers; and Other Servers of Interest

BIGGER BALES. WITHOUT A BIGGER TRACTOR.

When we designed the 540, we knew you wanted a higher capacity round baler with versatility and convenience. We also knew you liked your tractor.

So keep your present tractor. Because with the 540 attached, all you need is a minimum 45 PTO horsepower tractor. We built the 540 with all the features of a large baler in a compact, low-profile design. The direct-feed, open-throat design makes for fast bale starts and easy operation.

You'll be able to handle a wide variety of crops with great maneuverability. All with your current tractor.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Weis Honors Pa. Farmers

From left, Sterman Masser, Weis Markets President Norman S. Rich, Keith Masser, and Charlie Brenneman, Weis Markets director of produce merchandising at the dinner. Sterman and Keith are from Sacromento in Schuylkill County where they operate the Masser Potato Company.

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Weis Markets, the state's single largest purchaser of Pennsylvania produce and dairy products, recently held a dinner in honor of the local farmers who supply its stores.

"Tonight, we celebrate an 84-year partnership between Pennsylvania's farmers and Weis Markets," said Weis Markets President Norman S. Rich. "In 1912, when the first Weis Markets store opened in Sunbury, customers could purchase Pennsylvania produce. Today, they still can, for Weis Markets is the state's single largest purchaser of Pennsylvania produce and dairy products."

Rich said, "But we're not just focusing on the past. Weis Markets is in the midst of its most ambitious expansion ever. Additional stores and larger produce departments mean greater opportunities for Pennsylvania's farmers."

Rich was joined by Pennsylvania State Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius and more than 100 producers at the Brynwood Lodge in Lewisburg.

Weis Markets purchases 19 varieties of seasonal produce from Pennsylvania farmers, including local sweet corn, cantaloupes, pears, peaches, plums, green beans, sweet corn, cucumbers, red, yellow and green peppers, acorn, butternut and spaghetti squash, tomatoes, plum and cherry tomatoes, cider and cauliflower.

Many of these products are shipped directly to Weis Markets stores. The farmers who supply Weis Markets come from counties across the state, including Blair, Centre, Cumberland, Franklin, Huntingdon, Lancaster, Lebanon, Luzerne, Lycoming, Northumberland, Northampton, Schuylkill, Snyder, Union, and York counties.

Weis Markets operates 151 stores, mostly located in Pennsylvania. Over the next two months, it expects to open eight new superstores in Wellsboro, Allentown, Altoona, Hazleton, Kutztown, E. Stroudsburg, Havre De Grace, Md. and Laurel, Md.

Corn Heads Target Narrow-Row Farming

MOLINE, Ill. — With renewed and growing interest in extra-narrow-row corn planting, John Deere is introducing two new 90 Series corn head configurations for growers looking for factory-ready, 20- and 22-inch harvesting equipment.

Available for the 1997 harvest season, the new John Deere 1290 Corn Head features 12 row units on 20-inch spacings, while the new model 1291 Head has 12 row units on 22-inch spacings. The extra-narrow 20- and 22-inch spacings are factory set and are nonadjustable.

The new extra-narrow models feature the John Deere exclusive Perma-Glide shields and points. These rugged, long-lasting points and deck covers are custom-designed for the extra-narrow-row corn heads and do not require additional modifications or adjustments.

Along with reduced maintenance, these Perma-Glide components offer improved crop feeding and material flow, reduced ear losses, and improved serviceability and access to the individual row units. The folding points and deck covers also provide for narrower trailer transport widths and reduced storage space requirements.

Both the 1290 and 1291 extra-narrow models feature the same 16-inch-diameter cross auger used on all other 90 Series Corn Heads. This large auger provides faster and smoother flow of ears into the combine's feeder house.

The John Deere 1290 and 1291 corn heads feature factory-set row spacings of 20 and 22 inches, respectively. Like other 90 Series Corn Heads, these 12-row models also feature exclusive PermaGlide™ points and deck covers and a 16-inch-diameter cross auger for fast, smooth crop flow into the feeder house.

Farm Credit Announces Election Results

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA, announced the results of the 1996 stockholder mail ballot election.

Four expired director positions were filled with terms beginning January 1, 1997, and continuing through December 31, 1999. The full board of directors includes 12 stockholder-elected directors and one outside director elected by the board.

Dale Hoffman, a dairy farmer from Potter County, was re-elected to represent the Coudersport division. Glenn Carper, a dairy farmer from Snyder County, was elected to represent the Middleburg division. Roy Beardslee, a dairy farmer from Bradford County, was re-elected to represent the northeast region. Dennis Spangler, a dairy farmer from Union County, was re-elected to represent the southern region.

New Holland Adds Power Unit

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The New Holland 42 PTO HP Model 3010S tractor is a basic unit that offers exceptional value, said product manager Jerry Dieker.

Powered by a 3-cylinder 165 CUI diesel, the new tractor features an 8x2 transmission and 9 GPM hydraulic flow with a choice of one or two remotes.

Third and fourth gears are synchromesh on the "3010S" and the 540 PTO is independent. A separate 5 GPM steering pump provides ample flow for power steering. Hydraulic lift capacity at 3839 pounds is more than 1,000 pounds greater than some competitors.

Draft/position control is fully adjustable and a touch control fast raise/lower work switch is standard. Top-link sensing draft control system is standard.

New model 3010S New Holland tractor with 3-cylinder 165 CUI diesel engine, 8x2 transmission, and 9 GPM hydraulic flow.

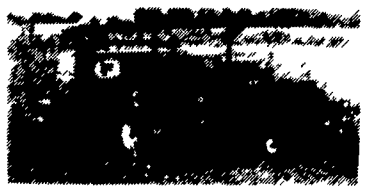
New Features In No-Till Systems

ATLANTA, Ga. — For 1997, Agco® Tye has incorporated several new features in the 2000 no-till systems.

"Tye has our farmer in mind when adding these new customer requested changes," said Andy Anderson, Tye marketing manager. "We are offering him the most accurate and advanced no-till system on the market, complete with time saving and safety bonuses."

For superior seed placement, Tye has added heavier 40 pounds/inch down-pressure springs and smooth-sided EZ Adjust Press-wheels to the 2000 no-till systems. The pressure on these springs can be quickly changed with three turnbuckle adjustments.



Tye's 2000 no-till systems offer several new features and options — automatic depth control, enlarged grain box, safety features, and in-cab monitoring.

Tye's award winning ADC2000 automatic depth control option provides the operator with automatic seed depth control. The ADC2000 senses changes in the field surface and automatically adjusts the coulter depth for consistent seed placement in the seed track.

To save time and increase productivity, Tye has enlarged the grain box to hold 2.8 bushel/feet or 323 l/m. In addition to the larger grain box, the 2000 no-till systems feature a convenient 14-inch wide fill opening, a new latchless rainguard lid, and a bin level indicator. The Tye grainbox is self-cleaning. For added safety, steps, handholds, lights, flashers, and towing safety chains are now standard equipment.

Loader Breaks New Ground

ATLANTA, Ga. — Farmhand's GL545 hydraulic self-leveling loader is a low profile, high visibility Quick-Tach unit specifically designed to fit 2WD tractors from 30 to 120 HP and FWA tractors from 30 to 60 HP.

"The GL545's most impressive feature is the two-way hydraulic self-leveling system that can be field installed in just a few steps," said Kevin Lund, marketing manager, Farmhand. "This system offers peak performance without the higher profile and added pivot points, grease fittings, and linkages used in mechanical self-leveling systems."

To activate the system, slave cylinders with hydraulic displacement proportional to the tilt cylinders are placed on the loader. When the lift boom is raised and lowered, the oil is displaced between the slave cylinders and the tilt cylinders. This proportional displacement causes the bucket to maintain the same angular relationship to the ground.

The GL545 loader can lift 3,100 pounds to 10 feet 4 inches with a 4,200-pound breakaway. It has a typical digging depth of four inches, a 22-degree bucket rollback and 38 - degree dump angle.

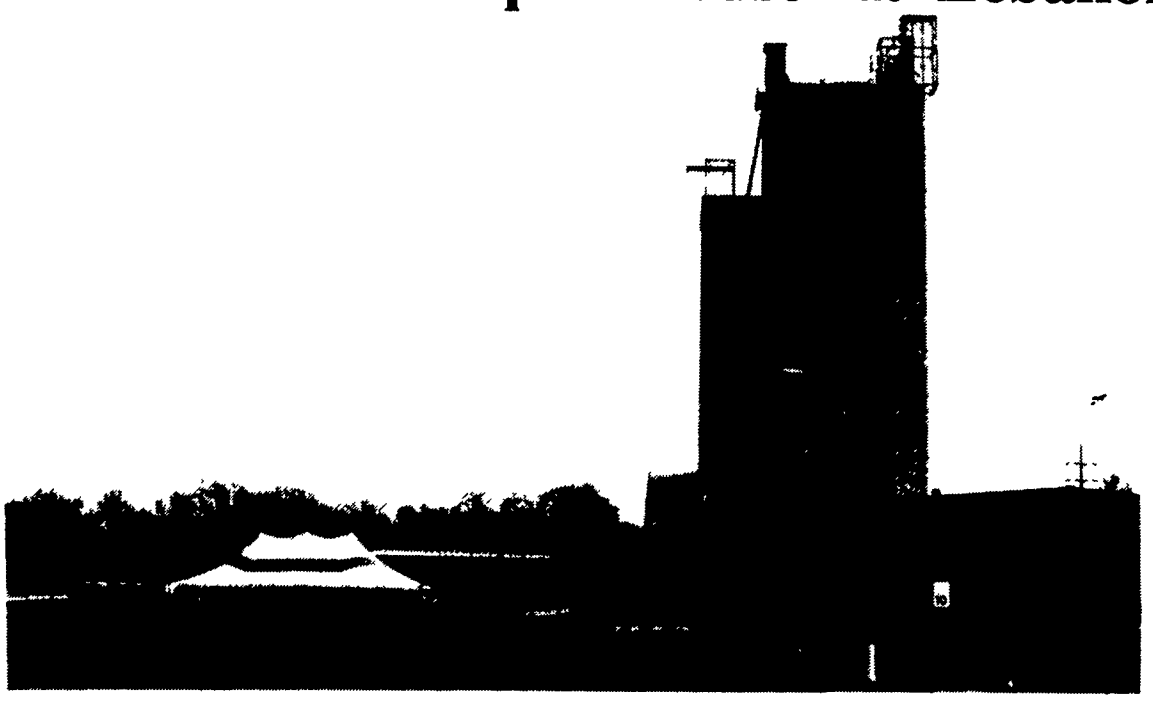
Nutrena Holds Open House At Lebanon Mill



The new Cargill Nutrena Feeds tower rises 200-feet above the ground, and goes down another 30 below. In its shadow, about 400 people gather under a tent for food and a tour of the new facility.

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — About 400 people turned out recently to an open house tour of Cargill's new Nutrena Feeds feed mill in Lebanon city.

Located at the north end of the city's 16th Street, it represents a new landmark on a former ball field that was owned by the Cleaver Brooks boiler company — it's a landmark because the feed mill tower stands 200 feet above ground. (The base of the tower actually goes down into the earth another 30 feet.)

An adjacent office building houses a few administrative workers who take and process orders and ship product. All the other accounting details are handled in the Cargill district office in New York state.

Excavation on the site, which Cargill offered to purchase in November 1994, started in late May 1995 and took 14 months to complete.

Feed production at the highly automated facility began late July this year.

The mill tower itself is honeycombed with multiple bins for maximum ingredient flexibility. The design allows for steam flake grains and soy beans, receiving and elevating whole cottom seed, pelleting, textured bulk feeds, meal feeds, and pelleted and meal packaged products.

Ingredient are received by both bulk and rail, while all bulk materials coming in and going out are protected from weather exposure, including rain.

According to Rod Isham, Cargill's Nutrena branch manager, the mill is designed to cover animal feed needs in a 150-mile radius.

He said production at the Nutrena mill is geared toward dairy and swine feeds, but they also make feeds for poultry, and they have horse and pet foods, as well.

"Pennsylvania has a very strong and diverse agricultural economy and our company decides to build or purchase where we think we can add value," Isham said.

"Farming has become very technical and we've developed a lot of technology to help farmers improve his profitability.

"Personally, I believe in the family farm," he said, noting that the region is strong in family operations, and that he is glad to be working with them, in addition to the larger commercial operations.

He said that the Lebanon mill has seven sales representatives covering the region, and they also serve as on-farm consultants, being all trained nutritionists, with most having either college science degrees or years of pratical experience.

"Our philosophy is to move decision making to the farm," Isham said. "There is no magic feed, but there are technologies, and farm management ... that we can marry all together.

"We work hard at making sure that somebody who does business with us is happy and that it is good for them and for the long term for what they are trying to accomplish."

At the new Lebanon mill, a Conrail line goes by the front door, and the ocmpany's trucks have easy access to I81 and the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Isham said that direct feed delivery loads from the mill to the farm are from three tons and up by trailer, while bagged feeds are mostly handled through distribution points and dealers.

He said that the company has feed warehouses scattered throughout the 150-mile radius area from Lebanon.

The first load of feed sold from the Lebanon mill was done July 24 to a Cochranville farmer, and Isham said that startup at the facility has been smooth.

"Our greatest challenge has been to stay ahead of our rapidaly growing business as new customers are a frequent occurance."

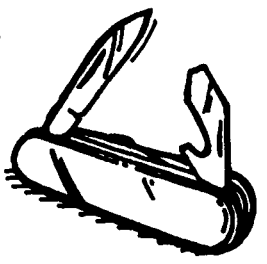
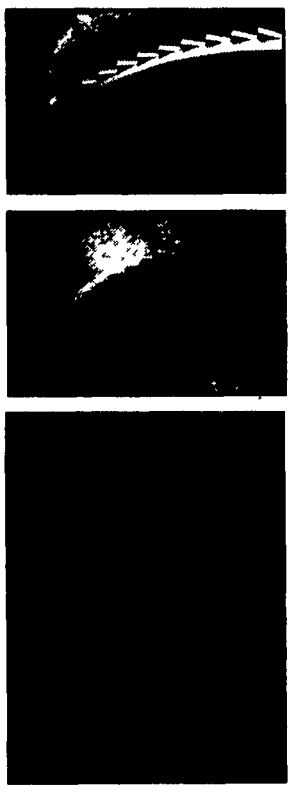
A Knife Cuts Twine... An Oswalt® Hay Saw Cuts Hay!



(NEW HAY SAW PROCESSOR MAKES QUICK WORK OF LONG STEMMED HAY)



Some mixer companies will tell you they have "knives" installed on the augers of their mixers that will cut through long stemmed hay. But that's like comparing a pocket knife to a chain saw. Oswalt's newest feed mixer cuts through long stemmed hay, turning it into a blended, uniform and highly digestible ration . and it does it in record time!

Hay Saw sections are installed in a continuous ribbon on the leading edge flighting of the bottom augers. As hay is pulled into the lower augers, an even sawing action cuts effortlessly through the long stemmed hay. And because it saws as the auger turns, it actually processes hay with a lot less torque, saving time and fuel.

Ask your Oswalt Dealer for a demo. Then you'll see what we mean when we say Nothing Performs Like an Oswalt!

LLAMAS LLAMAS LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at $3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

We prefer seling off the farm, rather than subjecting our animals to the stress of auctions.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, incuding Otter Creek Harold.

All llamas can be halter led, and are gently trained by teenagers.

Learn To Control Greenhouse Runoff

ITHACA, N.Y. — Controlling greenhouse runoff without affecting crop production requires close management of water and nutrient applications.

Preparing stock solutions for proportioners, selecting substrate, interpreting leaf, substrate, and water test results, and estimating crop nutrient needs are necessary skills for managing a greenhouse for zero runoff.

A publication from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES), "Water and Nutrient Management for Greenhouses," NRAES-56 will help greenhouse managers learn these skills. This 110-page publication provides managers with guidelines for fulfilling crop nutrient needs while minimizing environmental risk.

"Water and Nutrient Management for Greenhouses" begins with a discussion of general crop needs. The proper methods for collecting and submitting leaf samples for analysis are presented. Readers will learn how to interpret such analyses to balance nutrient applications with crop demand. An easy-to-follow explanation of units for measuring fertilizer quantities can be used to compare the nutrient value of various fertilizers.

Subsequent chapters go into more detail about specific components of the root zone. The water chapter covers water analyses, minimum standards for irrigation water quality, alternatives for managing water quality, and several types of irrigation systems. The fertilizer chapter discusses nutrient solution analyses, fertilizer properties, formulating fertilizer solutions and bagged fertilizers, calculating application rates, and delivering fertilizer to the crop. How to select, maintain, and use a fertilizer proportioner is also reviewed.

Substrates are described at length. The physical, chemical, thermal, and biological characteristics of substrates are presented to provide readers with an understanding of how substrate affects the root zone environment. Suggestions for selecting substrate ingredients, mixing substrate, and determining the amount of substrate needed are offered as well. The difficulties with and benefits of hydroponic culture are briefly addressed. The final chapter defines the features of a well-designed water and nutrient delivery system and reviews the pros and cons of leached versus zero-runoff systems. Fifty-three tables, 15 figures, example calculations, an appendix of common fertilizers, and a glossary supplement the text.

"Water and Nutrient Management for Greenhouses," NRAES-56, is available for $20 each plus shipping and handling from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, New York 14853-5701. Quantity discounts are available. Shipping and handling for single copies is $3.50 within the continental United States.

For information about quantity discounts or for a free publications catalog, contact NRAES by phone at (607) 255-7654, by fax at (607) 254-8770, or by e-mail at nraes@cornell.edu.

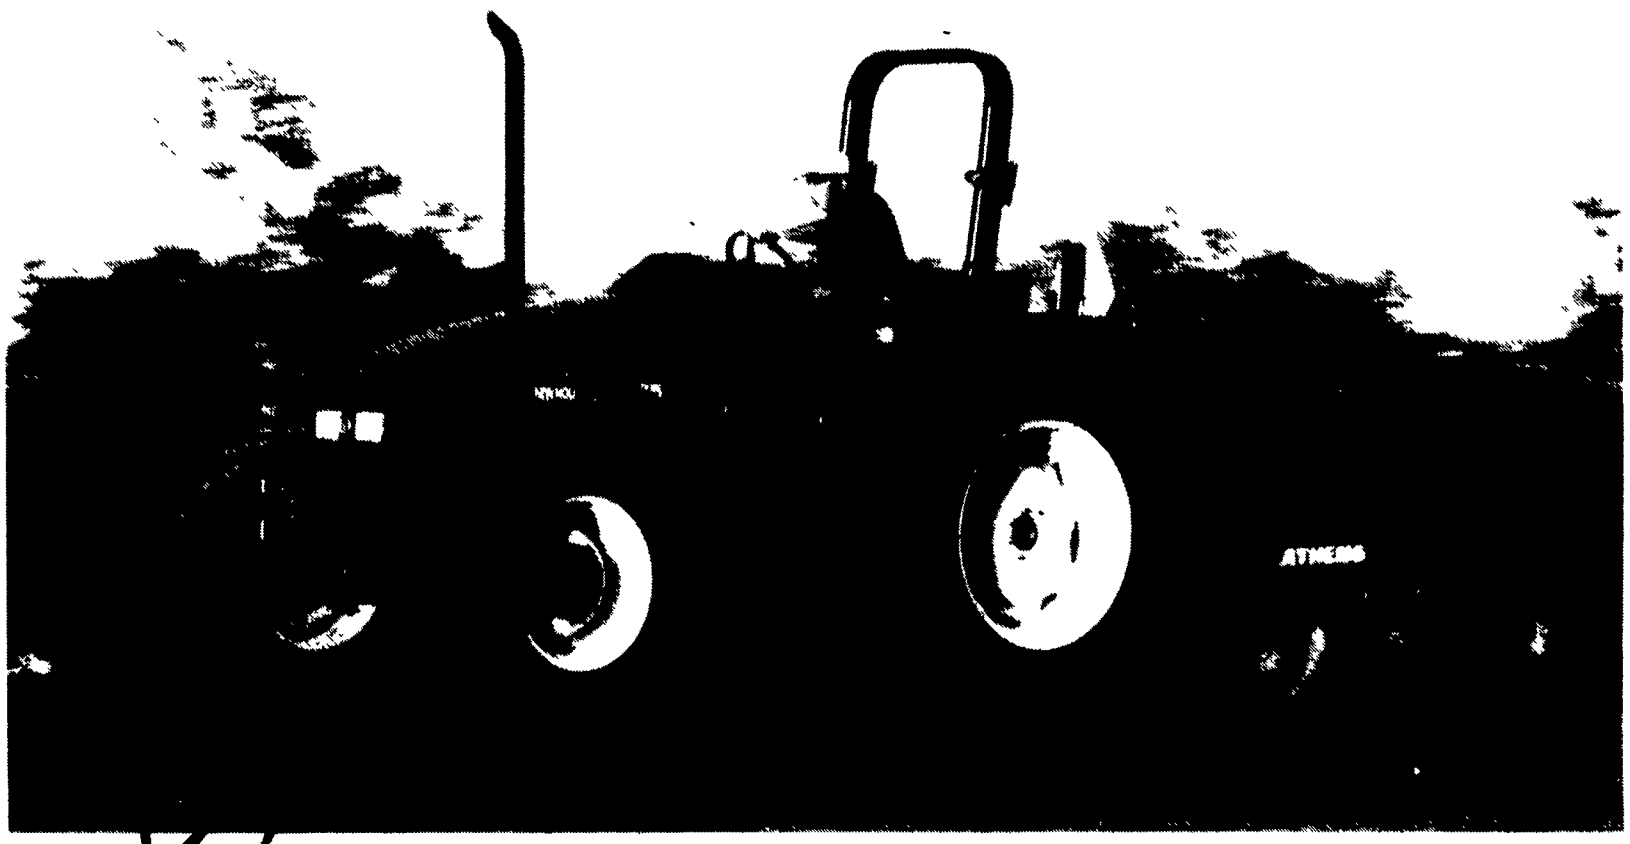
TEST DRIVE ONE TODAY!

MASSEY FERGUSON



Great looks. Aggressive power.

A New Holland 35 Series tractor can really fool you. It looks so compact and stylish, you're totally unprepared for how hard it works.

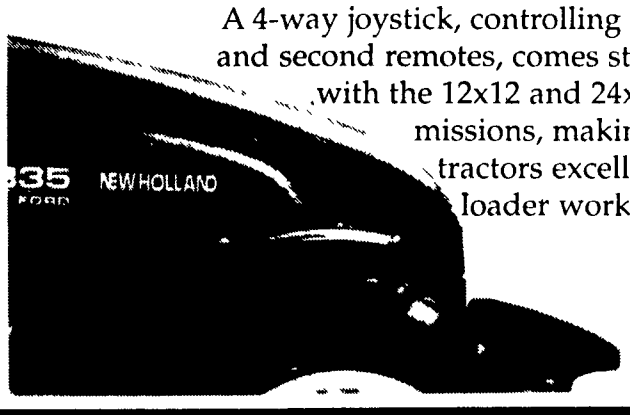
Powerful engines

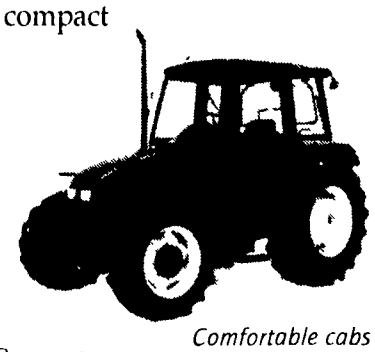
Rugged, compact New Holland engines work big, producing 56 to 86 PTO horsepower, and between 22% and 30% torque rise. There is 1000 useful rpm between maximum torque and maximum power. Not only that, they're quiet. And miserly with fuel.

Three transmissions

Choose from three transmissions:
- reliable 12x4 synchro
- 12x12 Synchro Command™ with shuttle
- 24x12 Dual Command™ with shuttle

A 4-way joystick, controlling the first and second remotes, comes standard with the 12x12 and 24x12 transmissions, making these tractors excellent for loader work.





Comfortable cabs

Visibility and Comfort

Comfortable flat decks and short sloping hoods give you exceptional vision straight ahead, and good sight lines to the front wheels. You sit comfortably, with plenty of room for your knees and feet. And you can enter or exit either side.

There's plenty more, too: foldable ROPS; A/C cabs (even on the 56-hp model); electro-hydraulic diff-lock; heavy duty 3-point.

Tell your dealer you want to try a "35 Series", the latest member of the exciting New Holland family of tractors.

Planning Key To Community Forest Management

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Of Pennsylvania's 2,500-plus municipalities, there are fewer than 30 communities that are actively managing trees, according to a community forestry expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"If active leaders within a town push for a community tree program, it will not only benefit the citizens, but also provide inspiration to homeowners to manage their own trees," said Bill Elmendorf, instructor and urban and community forest program coordinator in the School of Forest Resources.

Elmendorf said many communities have not formulated a forest program because of perceived hurdles within a municipal government, as well as lack of funding. In reality, he says citizens can start a community forest management program by bringing together interested residents and at least one community leader.

"There should be an ad hoc committee that represents the entire community," Elmendorf said. "From the beginning, the committee should work with an influential individual in the community. Then the group can form a municipal tree commission, which can administer any management plan."

Formulating a tree program consists of just a few basic steps, according to Elmendorf. These steps include:

• A tree inventory. "A thorough assessment of the community's trees is needed, paying attention to hazardous trees, diseased trees and available planting space," he said.

• A street tree ordinance. By enacting a tree ordinance, a city gives legal standing to both the tree commission and any management plan it initiates.

• A comprehensive tree plan. The plan should clearly state the community's vision, goals and objectives for its trees. "Most tree plans can be very simple, five-page documents or they can be sophisticated, 200-page documents," Elmendorf said. "A small community shouldn't be intimidated by the prospect of constructing a plan."

Elmendorf recommends that any tree plan include guidelines for administration and management, identification and prioritization of hazardous trees, a yearly evaluation to identify trees to be removed, a schedule of tree maintenance, and a yearly evaluation of all potential planting sites.

"The tree plan should also address public education," Elmendorf said. "You can detail how to get youth groups, seniors, service organizations and the business community to participate."

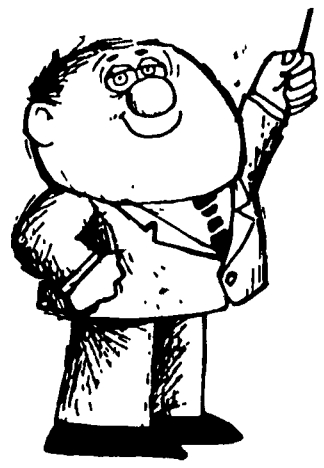
Once the community tree plan is completed, Elmendorf said, concerned citizens can use the statistics and detailed analysis within the plan as a platform from which to ask municipal officials or the business community for funding.

"You can't tell people to save trees just because they're beautiful," Elmendorf points out. "Fluff isn't enough. You have to be able to show people what benefit they are getting from funding the project. For example, well-managed mature landscaping can raise property values significantly."

Elmendorf warns against setting unrealistic fund-raising goals, pointing out that small, local governments rarely have extra funds to sponsor new and unproved programs. "If you get $50,000 for the program, that's great," Elmendorf said. "If you get $500 that's great, too. You just do what you can with the funds you are given."

Finally, Elmendorf recommends scheduling events to build up volunteer participation. Effective activities include tree plantings, Arbor Day and Earth Day celebrations, minor tree maintenance outings, fund-raising projects, or restoring a forested area such as a woodland or park.

"Eventually, as communities attain their management goals, they can even look beyond the city limits," Elmendorf said. "Perhaps adjoining communities can work together to manage areas such as forested corridors or stream areas near their borders."



Local Junior Joins In Lean Beef Production

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Kelly S. Dietrich of Hambora has joined juniors across the nation in production and promotion of lean Limousin beef by recently becoming a member of the North American Limousin Junior Association (NALJA), the group of youth interested and involved in the Limousin cattle breed. The breed enjoys a world-wide reputation for production of lean, tasty beef.

Limousin beef serves both consumer demand for leaner meat and beef producers' demand for superior genetic traits. The number of producers using Limousin genetics in their herds has expanded dramatically in recent years.

For more information about becoming a member of NALJA, contact George Hubbard at the North American Limousin Foundation office at (303) 220-1693.

TEMPERATURE ADAPTATIONS IN DOMESTIC FOWL

This is the second article that discusses how birds respond and adapt to environmental temper ature changes.

How does heat exchange occur between the bird and its environment? Heat is lost (or gained) to the environment in four ways:

1) Radiation. Heat is lost by radiation if the temperature of the body surface is higher than objects or surfaces in the environment. This effect is what you feel when you stand near a cold wall. Even if the air is warm, radiant heat leaves the body toward the cold surface. Conversely, heat will leave a surface warmer than the body and flow toward that body. Remember, it is heat that moves, not cold; the reason we (or the bird) feel cold is that heat is leaving the body.

2) Conduction. Loss of heat by conduction involves a direct transfer of heat from the bird's body when it is in direct contact with an object. Air has such low thermal conductivity that conductive heat loss to air is negligible. Birds on litter on cold days may be seen dusting in a spot warmed by the sun — they are gaining heat. Conversely, on hot days they seek cool, moist areas.

3) Convection. Heat loss by convection occurs because as air in contact with the body gets warmer, it expands, begins to rise, and is replaced by cooler air. Increased air movement (breeze or draught) increases heat loss because the heated air is removed from the body surface more rapidly. In general, the effect of air movement is proportional to the square root of the velocity of air movement. The convective effect is also directly related to the temperature of the moving air.

A second, special type of convective heat transfer occurs within the body. As the deep body temperature increases due to the metabolism of the tissues, blood circulation to the surface increases, which allows for greater heat loss from the skin surface. Radiation, conduction, and convection are termed "sensible" or direct heat loss.

The fourth form of heat loss — evaporative heat loss — is termed "insensitive" or "indirect" heat loss. The amount of heat loss by evaporation of moisture at a given air temperature depends on the difference between the amount of moisture on a surface and the moisture in the air as well as the rate of air movement over that surface.

Evaporative heat loss is what you feel when you come out of a swimming pool. Even on a warm day, if there is a breeze blowing, you feel cool until you dry off. Birds do not have sweat glands, so they possess dry skins; even so, they lose some heat by evaporation from their skin. However, birds lose much more heat by evaporation from the moists surfaces of their respiratory tract — the mouth, trachea, bronchial tubes, lungs, and air sacs.

Effect of feathers. Feathers moderate heat exchange by providing an insulating blanket of air to the skin. Remember, air is a poor heat conductor. In a way, feathers act like the air spaces in a styrofoam ice chest. If feathers are removed or are defective, or when the bird molts, the metabolic rate increases because the body attempts to increase its heat production to keep its temperature constant. On the other hand, in hot environments, reduced feather cover allows for greater cooling. For example, Naked Neck and Frizzle Fowl, which have genetically deficient feathering, are presently receiving consideration for areas of the world where air temperatures are consistently high, such as Sub-Saharan Africa.

In cold environments, bird fluff out their feathers, which increases the insulating air blanket. Chickens originating from warmer climates such as the Mediterranean breeds (Leghorns) have tighter feathering than those from cooler parts of the world (Cornish or White Rocks). It is estimated that heat loss from a standing chicken is 40 to 50 percent greater than from one that is sitting, which shows that the amount of surface exposed to the cold air (convective effect) is important.

The skin and temperature regulation. Skin temperature in areas covered by feathers remains close to that of the deep body in a wide range of air temperatures, but the skin temperature of non-feathered extremities is more variable. For example, as environmental temperature rises from 50°F to 86°F, the surface temperature on feather-covered skin only rises about 2°F. But the surface temperature on the unfeathered shank increases more than 9°F.

As pointed out, as the body is warmed, there is an increase in blood flow in the blood vessels of the skin. In this way heat is lost by the body, as long as the environmental temperature is lower than that of the body. In cold environments, blood flow to the skin surface is restricted because small blood vessels in the skin are constricted, which helps to reduce heat loss from unfeathered areas.

Chickens reared in high temperatures tend to develop larger combs than those reared in low temperatures. This adaptive modification allows a greater area of cooling from a part that has many blood vessels. Removal of the comb (dubbing) does not result in much of a change in body temperature, but there is less huddling in birds with combs dubbed than in those with intact combs, which suggests that the birds with dubbed combs feel less cold. Along these lines, it is perhaps noteworthy that Mediterranean breeds tend to have larger combs and wattles than English or American breeds.

In my next article I'll discuss some of the deep body systems that aid in temperature control.

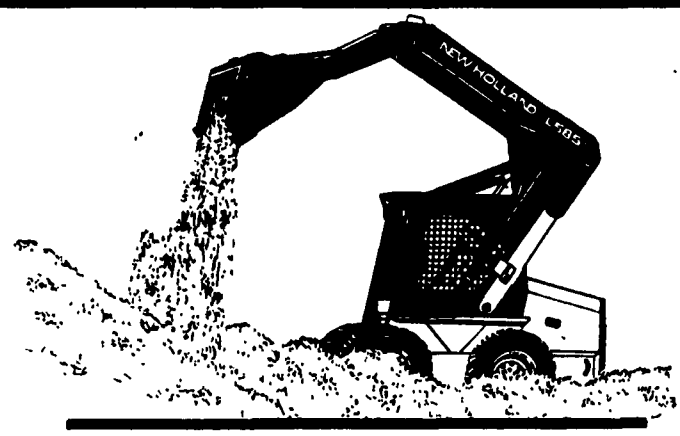
THE RELIABLE ONE



TOUGHER THAN THE REST

The New Holland Model L565 Super Boom™ skid-steer loader is tougher, more durable and more reliable than ever.

The "L565" offers a 40 horsepower diesel engine with an SAE load rating of a powerful 1,500 pounds.

The Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system makes it compatible with New Holland and competitive attachments. The strong boom design and massive loader pins make it more reliable. And the quick engine access makes it easier to service.

See what makes the Super Boom so tough.

Two-row (shown) and three-row corn attachments are available in narrow or wide row models. The two-row unit fits all three harvesters while the three-row unit fits both the Model 1065 and 1265.

Both corn attachments feature a patented rotor cutting system to feed stalks to the stationary cutting knife. Stalks are grabbed individually for minimal loss. With 3-inch wide crested gathering belts, the whole stalk and ears are delivered to the cylinder. The same sprocket powers both the gathering belts and the rotary knives. This simple system means less weight, less vibration and less maintenance.

Hammer Discharge

Patented Free Swinging Hammer Expeller

Forged Steel Hammer

Each hammer has a nylon bushing and a replaceable manganese steel wear plate

The expeller on all ProTwin models features 15 forged steel hammers mounted on a 2 1/2" shaft. The hammers pivot on 5/8" bolts with nylon anti seize type bushings that allow free movement. The expeller rotates at over 800 RPM allowing each eight pound hammer to swing down into the material, peeling it off and slinging it underhand in a fine spread pattern with no clumps. The 3" wide free swinging hammers absorb shock and tolerate most foreign objects. Each hammer is faced with a work-hardening manganese steel wear plate for longer life and low cost replacement. The adjustable shroud allows easy hammer clearance setting for optimum spread pattern width. This proven hammer expeller design enables fine spreading control and material calibration through the combination of the hydraulic door opening and ground speed.

The right auger is driven at the rear and is shear pin protected. Bearings, chains and sprockets are easily accessible for routine maintenance.

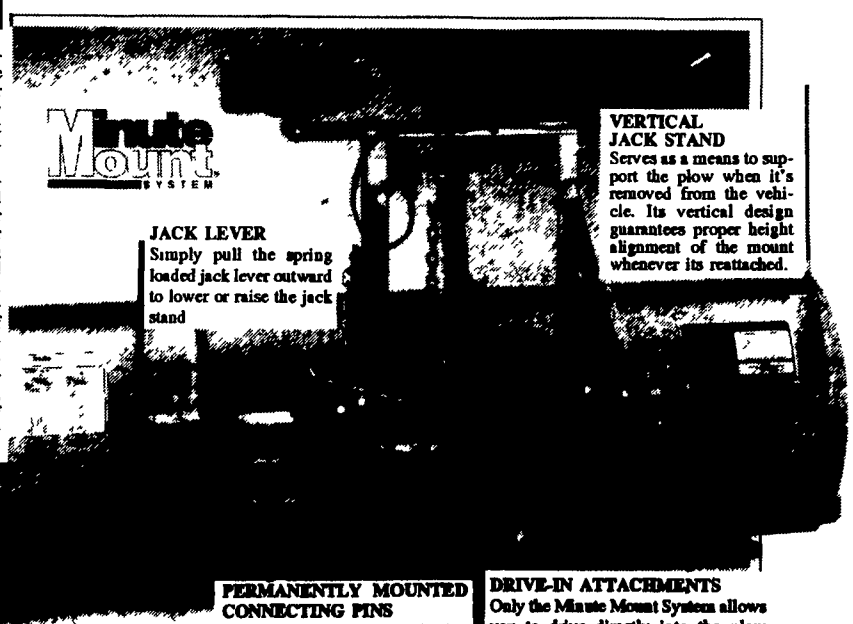
Order Today, Don't Wait! Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Your Source For Quality Snow Plows From Home Owner To Heavy Duty Truck Mount Plows

MINUTE MOUNT SYSTEM

The Minute Mount® System from Fisher sets the industry standard for detachable snowplow design. It's the quickest and easiest mounting system available!

Now, most of the snowplow mout is removed from the truck whenever it's not being used for plowing. By removing the headgear, lift arm and lights every time you remove the plow, you eliminate over 100 lbs. of weight on the front suspension and tires resulting in less wear all year long! This also means improved appearance of your four-wheel drive or sport-utility vehicle.



JACK LEVER
Simply pull the spring loaded jack lever outward to lower or raise the jack stand

VERTICAL JACK STAND
Serves as a means to support the plow when it's removed from the vehicle. Its vertical design guarantees proper height alignment of the mount whenever its reattached.

Minute Mount® System patented and patents pending

PERMANENTLY MOUNTED CONNECTING PINS
Because the two spring loaded connecting pins are permanently attached to the lower gear, there's no chance of dropping them in snow or losing them during storage. They snap into place when alignment is complete!

DRIVE-IN ATTACHMENTS
Only the Minute Mount System allows you to drive directly into the plow mount. There's no struggling with a heavy blade and attachments to position them to the vehicle.

The Key To Easy Operation Is In Your Hand

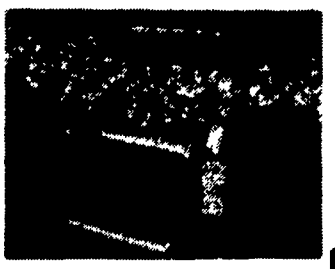
Grated Hopper Bottom We use spring steel straps in the hopper instead of using milder steel. The hopper is engineered to bounce back in shape.
Hydraulic Drive The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.
Rotation Tires The 18.5Lx16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction.
Reel Assembly We are using the same reel as the proven Super Picker 6600. The three paddel reel has a large diameter, hard surface tooth and heavy duty paddles.



Swing Pole The manual swing pole is easy to maneuver in both working or transport position

Solid Shaft Grill Tines with Replaceable Grill Tips. This modern grill is easier to maintain, has longer life giving you less down time The unique grill provides five feet of clean shifting and virtually jamless performance.

NEW TOUGHNESS OLD-FASHIONED DURABILITY

When the Case International 3800 Tandem Disk Harrow was introduced, it combined real improvements with the quality features of the 350, 370, and 475

For instance, a 1½ inch round arbor bolt at the heart of every gang assembly

Or consider the spring-cushion, self-leveling hitch. And, you'll disk confidently all day long using the mechanical depth control.

The 3800 is available in widths from 9 ft. 1 in to 20 ft. 6 in. Just pick the 3800 that fits your power availability and tillage needs

The new generation of Belarus. For a new generation of farmers.

Exceptional value. That's what cost-conscious farmers expect from hardworking Belarus tractors. But after twenty years, we feel it's time for a change. So we've updated the features and styling of our new 8000 and 9000 Series, while keeping everything that makes Belarus so dependable.

Take our new synchromesh transmission, for example. It offers 14 forward and 4 reverse speeds, for easy-to-shift power. Plus, an improved turning radius provides greater maneuverability for a whole range of applications.

See your local Belarus dealer for a test drive, and see for yourself.

The NEW LEADER L3020

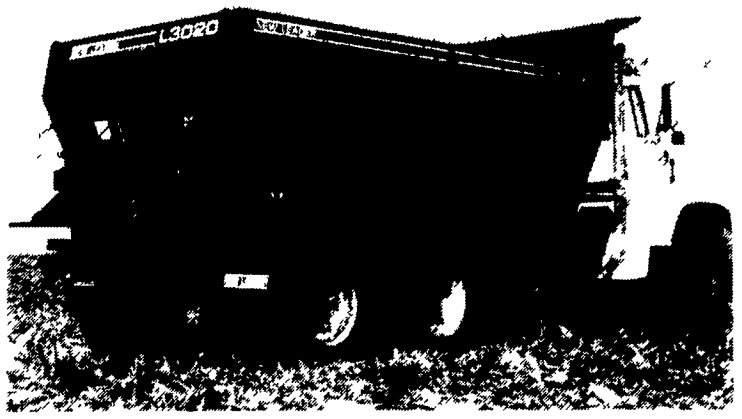
Heavy Duty LIME SPREADER



For more than 50 years, New Leader has aggressively met and exceeded market demand by producing the most dependable, adaptable and durable spreaders in the industry. The heavy-duty L-3020 spreader is a direct result of New Leader's unmatched experience in the agricultural equipment field. Designed for high-volume applications of ag-lime and gypsum, the rugged and resilient L-3020 is also suitable for spreading fertilizer and hauling aggregate material. Equipped with an optional swinging rear endgate, the L-3020 can be quickly and efficiently converted into a controlled discharge, no-hoist dump system for stockpiling. The L-3020's standard 30-inch wide conveyor system virtually eliminates the material bridging that's common with narrower conveyor spreaders. The versatile L-3020 broadcasts ag-lime at rates up to six tons per acre and fertilizer at rates as low as 150 pounds per acre.

Other Available Features:

- Complete body in 304 or 409 stainless steel
- Mounts on vehicles equipped with highway, semi or full flotation tires
- An optional ladder that attaches to either the left-or right-hand-side of the unit.
- Optional heat-and petroleum - resistant conveyor belting available for transport and application of hot asphalt.

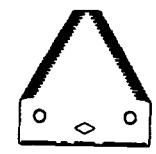
Genuine Case IH Combine Parts

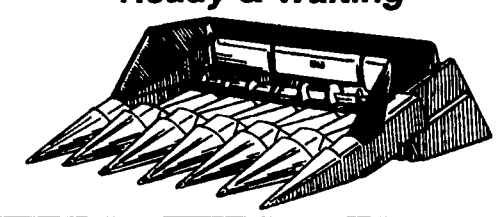
Give You a Head Start on Harvest!

Keep Cutting with Sta-Sharp™ and Super Sta-Sharp™ Sections

These self-sharpening sections deliver cleaner cutting and extra long life. Super Sta-Sharp sections feature a special course tooth profile and extra wear control.



Keep Your Nose Straight Corn Head Nose Cone Ready & Waiting



Keep Your Corn Head Far Ahead

Imitation parts just don't cut it. Only genuine Case IH corn head parts provide the fit and performance your combine requires.
Drive sprockets – made from high-strength, wear-resistant ductile iron.
Gatherer chain – provides far greater wear than imported "look-alikes."
Extended-life gatherer chain – chrome-plated pins and heavy-duty design wears 2.5 times longer than our standard chain.
Corn head knives – hard-faced with extra-thick tungsten carbide coating to stay sharp and last longer.
And be sure to replace worn corn head sprockets which may damage new chains.
